IN ALABAMA MAN GOES TO SPAIN.

Yesterday-Gessip of the Georgian Contingent-Notes and Personals.

Washington, April 6.—(Special.)—Secre-ary Carlisle is preparing to make a clean weep of the District of Columbia officials in the treasury department.

For years the number of employes of the epartment who reside in this city have een accumulating until now almost half the total number employed are residents this city openly credited to the District Columbia or else claiming a fictitions dence in states in which they do not re. This does a manifest injustice to the ites which are entitled to their propor-nate share of the whole number of emloyes and Secretary Carlisle is determined but the present state of affairs shall be prrected and that the quota of the Dis-rict of Columbia shall be reduced to its per limits. The lists are being carefully estigated and the dismissals will shortly

Appointments of the Day. The president sent the following noming ns to the senate today: Hannis Taylor, of Alabama, to be envoy straordinary and minister plenipotentiary William Lockren, of Minnesota, to be dissioner of pensions.

To be postmasters: Connil P. Brisstly, t Huntington, Tenn.; James F. McCutcheon, at Jackson, Tenn; Irwin Tucker, at Newport News, Md., and Exum B. Britt, at Suffolk, Va.

"Alabama will be delighted with the apcontinent. All of the people love him."
That is what Representative Oates said of the nomination of Hannis Taylor to be minister to Spain, and Mr. Oates should anow, for it was at his suggestion that the mination was made.

Sketch of the Appointee. Mr. Taylor is a lawyer living at Mobile, and his reputation is of the first water, one of his arguments made before the supreme court in opposition to the constitu-tionality of the anti-lottery law being in evidence on that point. But, first of all, Mr. Taylor is a scholar of high attainments. and his contributions to historical literature have made him well known to literary men, although he is comparatively a young man being in his forty-first year. His life work is "The Origin and Growth of the English Clonstitution." But one volume of this work has been published as yet, but it has already been adopted as a text book in seven universities. It is Mr. Taylor's de-sire to conclude the history during his stay Spain. He was strongly recommended Secretary Blaine by Senator Morgan as e of the arbitrators or counsel in the trongly endorsed by Mr. Phelps and son of the leading lawyers of New York.

Some Lively Developments. The investigation of the weather bureau f the agricultural department, which is eding under the direction of Secreary Morton, is developing some startling acts. Instances have been adduced where ffice furniture, carpet and linoleum have en carted off to the homes of officials and in one case it was claimed that the greed of one official went to the length

Mrs. Cleveland and the World's Fair.

Washington, April 6.—The president had a comparatively light day today. But few new applications for office were presented to him, and the senators and representatives who called came mainly for the purpose of looking after the cakes already in the oven.

The president re-affirmed his home rule policy today. To a couple of congressmen who called upon him to discuss territorial appointments he stated that it is his intention to adhere to the plan of selecting appointees to positions in the territories from among the residents, state and local. He will not depart from this rule, save in cases where the local candidates are manifestly unfit for office and it becomes necessary to seek elsewhere for the proper men for the places.

A new candidate for Indian commissioner has appeared in the person of Professor Marcelius Marshall, of Gilmer county, West Virginia. He was introduced to the president today by Congressman Pendleton, who, at the same time, presented Colonel Alex Campbell, of Bethany, who would like to be consul general at Melbourne. Senator Palmer and General Black called with Mr. Courtney, applicant for the mar-shalship for the Northern district of Illinois.

Wheeler and His Documents. Wheeler and His Documents.

General Wheeler, of Alabama, was one of the president's earliest callers today. He had a bundle of papers under his arm.

"All these papers refer to the application of one of my constituents." said General Wheeler. "He is a spiendid fellow, and I feel certain that the president will not overlook his claims."

"How many appointments have you secured so far?" was asked.

"When I get the one I am after today and another I will have two," was the general's philosophical answer.

She Will Press the Button.

Mrs. Cleveland has decided not to accept the invitation of the Columbian exposition directory to be present at the formal opening of the world's fair. She will, however, take part in the opening ceremonies through the medium of an electric wire, which will connect the white house with the expasition grounds. The society of the Daughters of the Revo The society of the Daughters of the Revolution recently decided to have a memorial bell cast within the fair grounds and Mrs.
Cleveland was invited to touch a wire through which a current will pass to an electrical automatic arrangement and turn the molten metal of which it will be composed into the Cleveland will touch the button at the white house and this afternoon Private Secretary Thurber notified the officers of the society of Mrs. Cleveland's acceptance of their invitation.

OFFICERS OF THE SENATE.

They Were Elected Testerday-Discussion of the Admission of the Three Senators.

Washington, April 6 .- Mr. Peffer made an argument in the senate today in opposi-tion to the right of the senators appointed by the governors of the states of Montana, Washington and Wyoming to take their seats in the senate; and Mr. Hoar com menced a speech in support of a resolution offered by him last Monday, declaring the proposed constitutional amendment for the election of senators by the people of the several states inexpedient. action to be taken on the resolution for the election of officers of the senate. The resolution was agreed to without the formality of a division after the delivery of some half of a division after the delivery of some half a dozen speeches (all but one coming from the democratic side) in warm commenda-tion of the character, ability and efficiency of the present incumbents. The resolution were agreed to electing William R. Cox, of North Carolina, secretary of the senate; Richard K. Bright, of Indiana, sergeant-at-arms, and William H. and as to the propriety of their admission as states.

The debate on the admission of the three senators appointed by the governors of Montana Washington and Wyoming was resumed and Mr. Peffer made an argument against their right to seats, taking the ground that it was the business of the states themselves and not of the senate to see to it that they were fully represented in the senate of the United States.

At the close of Mr Peffer's speech, the matter was laid aside temporarily at the request of Mr. McPherson, and the resolution reported yesterday from the coumittee on contingent expenses was taken up upon it. It declares it to be inexpedient to adopt the resolution of the last house of representatives for an amendment to the constitution so as to secure the election of senators by the people of the several states. It gives nine principal reasons why such a change should not be made, the last of them being that it would result in the overthrow of the whole scheme of the same and in the end of the whole scheme of the national constitution as designed and established by the framers of the constitution and the people who adopted it.

Mr. Hoar's speech was philosophical in character and largely retrospective. He contrasted the tone of public sentiment now and forty years ago—the contrast not being to the advantage of the past. He claimed that measures of improvement, which have taken place in public life, has come from the permanency and stability of other political institutions and agreed that changes should not be made lightly or inconsiderately.

SERGEANT RYAN'S CELLAR.

Were Put Away.

Were Put Away.

Washington, April 6.—In the weather bureau investigation today Captain of the Watch Brandon was first called. His testimony went to show that the property clerk had been ignored and that, as he claimed he had an order from the disbursing officer, Mr. Stone, placing him in charge of the storeroom. In this capacity he disposed of the property of the department at such prices as he chose, admitting that a private sale would be had on one day and a public one the next.

There appeared wide discrepancies in the prices, and when called upon to explain this he said that his books had been stoien. He admitted he had sent furniture to the private houses of several of the chiefs of divisions, to Major Harrington's residence and to his own home. Some of these things had recently been returned to the department, but not all of them. He also claimed that he had seen stored in the cellar of Sergeant's Ryan's house over $1,000 worth of belongings of the department. Sergeant Ryan is an employe of the bureau.

CANCELED THEIR POLICIES.

Antiers, I. T., April 6.—The insurance companies canceled all their policies on property here yesterday on account of threats to burn the town. A special left Paris, Tex., last night with a strong force of deputy marshals to protect the lives and property of United States citizens.

No Election by the People

Providence, R. I., April 6.—The returns in today show that there is no election of the state ticket by the people. Baker, democratic candidate for governor, has a small plurality and Barnett, republican candidate for secretary of state, and Clarke, republican candidate for general treasurer, also have slight pluralities. For congressmen Page and Lapham are re-elected by about five hundred plurality each.

A UNITED STATES CONSULATE SACKED And the Acting Consular Agent Shot in the Foot, WHILE THE POLICE DID NOTHING

But Stand and Look on-Secretary Gresham Orders an Investigation-The Correspondence on the Matter.

Washington, April 6.—It was Chile during the last administration. It may be its neigh-bor, Peru, during this. It appears that the United States consulate at one of the Peruvian ports has been sacked by a mob with apparent police sanction. The acting as consular agent for the United States was seized upon and wounded in the foot. The news came in a brief tele-gram through the United States minister to Peru. He omitted such essential details as the name of the place and the name of the wounded officer or they were dropped from his dispatch in the telegraphic transmission.

His telegram is as follows:

Lima, April 5.—Gresham, Washington. At

—, a moo attacked a Masonic lodge, sacked the building and burned the fixtures in the street. Incidentally the United States consulate was invaded, the furnishings destroyed and the acting consular agent shot in the foot.
The archives were saved intact. A squad of Peruvian police looked on while the mob performed the work without interference. The mail brings the particulars. HICKS.
Secretary Gresham conferred with the president on the subject and this afternoon sent the following telegram to the infinister:
Department of State, Washington, D. C., April 6.—To Hicks, Minister, Lima: Protest orgainst the failure of the authorities to afford protection to the consulate, and if the facts are well established ask an expression of regret, the prompt prosecution of the guility parties, and reparation for the injury to American property and person.

There is but one consulate in Peru—that at Callao. In this position Mr. Aquilla J.
Daugherty, of Illinois, appointed under Mr.
Harrison's administration, stands on the record as consul. There are under him seven consular agencies, the occupants of which position are doubtless mostly merchents of the country, who are paid by fees, and these fees seem to be very small, inasmych as only two make any returns to the department of fees collected, and those returns are under $25 a year. These consular agents are as follows: Cerro de Pasco—M. C. MeNulty. Chiclayo—Alfred Solf, Mollendo—William R. Griffith. Paita—Johp F. Hopkins, Jr. Piura—Emilio
Clark, Truxillo—Edward Gottfried. Tumbez—William Baldini.

Whether the outrage complained of oc-

At an Interior Point Whether the outrage complained of oc curred at one of these smaller places or at Callao, no one at the department can determine from the telegram, but inasmuch as it comes from Lima, the impression prevails that the scene of the outrige was one of the interior points. This impression is further strengthened by the knowledge in the department that in many cases where the natives assaulted the subconsulate, the trouble is due, not to any antagonism to the country represented, but to prejudice and ill feeling against the representatives personally. This is not an uncommon occurrence in South America, or in other parts of the world, where the acts of a mercantile consular agent are resented by the people who would respect the acts of who would respect the acts of a citizen of the United States, duly appointed to a full consular position. It is believed that the matter will be satisfactorily explained in a short time. Secretary Gresham's action in the matter was marked by promptness and caution. The demands are predicated on a corroborof the facts as stated briefly by the

On Moving a Second Reading of the Irish Home Pule Bill. London, April 6.—The galleries of the house of commons were full, but the house itself was not crowded when Mr. Gladstone house of commons were full, but the house itself was not crowded when Mr. Gladstone arose today to move the second reading of the bill to establish home rule in 'reland. Mr. Gladstone said that the government had no intention of amending the bill as presented except in some minor particulars. He earnestly desired to bring home to the minds of the house the question when this great controversy was to end. (Cheers.) He did not address the question to the opposition in a spirit of assumed superiority, but he would rather press it earnestly upon their hearts and understandings as a matter in which both sides were equally interested. For many years the question of Irish home rule had blocked the way of legislation. The liberal party had offered a solution but when they asked their opponents where all this was to end, they rarely obtained an answer. Certainly the opposition had not yet ventured to point out a process whereby the greatest of Irish questions should be decided apart from the way in which the home rule bill proposed to decide it. (Cheers.) Mr. Gladstone proceeded with a historic development of the rise and the causes of the demand for Irish home rule.

DUPUY'S POLICY.

the Chamber of Deputies.

The New Premier Reads His Statement to the Chamber of Deputies.

Paris, April 6.—M. Dupuy, the new premier, read a statement of his policy in the chamber of deputies today. He said that the government is conscious of the difficulties of the present situation, but feels confidence in view of the profound tranquillity prevailing in the country and its abiding faith in the republic, which proves that the painful incidents of the last few months, despite the efforts to turn them to advantage for political ends have neither checked the vigorous growth of the republic nor injured the country's traditional reputation for probity and honor. (Applause.)

One lesson to be drawn from these trials is that competency and affluence are only to be acquired by honest work and only obtained by a regard for morality and the preservation of self respect. This lesson has gone home to the national conscience. We may, therefore, regard the future with confidence. Every day universal suffrage brings democratic inspirations into greater accord with republican institutions and the day is at hand when the definitive indication of France with the republic will render an agreement easier to establish. The surest means of hastening such a result is that the public administration should act with correctness and with consideration for equity and order to secure the common welfare. "Citizens, I ask you to let the country feel that parliamentary institutions are following their normal course by resolute attention to legislative business."

Applause greeted the close of the address.

At Something the ex-Preacher Had Published in His Paper, Accusing Her of Cheating the Organization.

Chicago, April 6 .- This was the day set for the annual meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union and it was predicted that before the session ended there would be troublous scenes, for the matter of the charges against Mrs. Matilda B. Carse, the founder of the great tem-perance temple, involving financial misman-

There was trouble, and it came One of the first arrivals was Mrs. Carse, herself, and she soon fell to talking pleasantly with some of her sisters in the work. All at once her gaze alighted upon Mr. Florence McCarthy, who was formerly a Baptist preacher, and is now employed on a morning newspaper. She was in the act of planting a stately kiss upon the forehead of a new comer when her eyes rested upon the form of Mr. McCarthy, who sat nonchalantly at the very edge of the palm-bedecked platform. The expression on bedecked platform. The expression on Mrs. Carse's face changed at once from sisterly sweetness to intense scorn.

"Leave this hall at once, sir. How dare you come here after villifying and lying about us as you have done in your paper," said she. Mrs. Carse's right hand was extended in close proximity to the surprised Mr. McCarthy's nose, and she continued to advance toward him with a Lady Macbeth sort of stride.

"But, madam—," he began.
"Leave this hall," she again shouted,
"and never come here again."

Her tone and manner were too much for Mr. McCarthy and he proceeded to back out up the main aisle without his hat, bowing profoundly at every step. When he reached the door he paused to speak to another lady acquaintance. In an instant Mrs. Carse was upon him again, her outstretched finger pointing as before.

"Ladies, don't have anything to say to that man," she shouted, "I want him to stay away from here," and bestowing another kiss upon another sister and requesting the organist to play, she mounted the platform, while Mr. McCarthy dodged down a side aisle and rescued his hat.

Later.—Mrs. Carse made an emphatic speech, in which she said: "I never cheated anybody out of a cent and would rather die than cheat anybody."

DOES IT MEAN WARP Troops May Be Called on to Eject the Resi-

Burning of a Sanitarium

Burning of a Sanitarium.

Cincinnati, O., April 6.—A careless tinnet upon the roof of the College Hill sanitarium this evening, caused a loss of from $100,000 to $150,000 of property and imperiled the lives of 200 patients.

A hot soldering from was permitted to ignite the roof and the flames quickly got beyond the control of the waterworks of the institution as well as that of the village of College Hill. By wise arrangement the superintendent, Dr. O. Everts, directed the attendants to give every effort to the task of safely removing the sick, the insane and the ailing patients. The institute were faithfully assisted by the villagers, who flocked to the place. The scenes within the great structure, four stories in height and filled with 200 patients, was exciting. The insane shrieked and tore their clothing. The less unfortunate were distracted by fear and begged to be helped away from the flames.

It is believed that every life was saved and every immate, except two men and one woman, was safely housed in adjoining buildings and in private houses. In the confusion two men and one woman escaped to the woods. A searching party was sent after them. The main building was entirely destroyed. It was built by J. C. C. Holenshade and used for some years as a female college. It has been used as a sanitarium for the private Treatment of the insane for the past eight or ten years.

The loss is from $75,000 to $100,000.

Dennis Clernan Expiated His Crime on the Pittsburg, Pa., April 6.—Dennis Clernan, the wife murderer, was hanged this morn ing. The crime for which he suffered the death penalty was the murder of his wife on March 17th of last year. There was no apparent motive for the murder. Clernan had been drinking heavily for several days and he came home on the evening of St. Patrick's day in a very ugly humor. He made some unreasonable demands of his wife, and upon her refusal to comply with them, he seized an ordinary wooden chair and struck her over the head, crushing her brains out. The unfortunate woman died in an hour. Clernan was put on trial for murder and was convicted two months later.

Hanging in Philadelphia. Philadelphia, April 6.—William Moore, the twenty-two-year-old negro who was conthe twenty-two-year-old negro who was convicted of killing his rival in love affairs, Charles Madden, last September, was hanged this morning at the county jail. The execution was conducted with the unusual dispatch and a new way of arranging the scaffold removed Moore from the view of the spectators until he had mounted the platform. The procession of the sheriff's jury, council officers, the prisoner and the newspaper men, marched to the scaffold at 10 o'clock. Moore, with his religious adviser, Rev. G. W. Offley, Prison Officer Perkins and his assistant, mounted farmly. No word was spoken and it took just a minute and a half to arrange the noose and black cap and pinion the prisoner's arms. Then the officers withdrew at 10:09 o'clock and the trap fell. The body was left hanging for twenty minutes, but nothing was noticeable except a twitching of the muscles. Moore appeared to be very calm. He slept well, ate a hearty breakfast and from 8:30 until 10 o'clock prayed and took communion with the pastor.

Anniston, Ala., April 6.—(Special.)—In the city court Judge Lapsley ruled for a rehearing in the case of the state vs. W. T. Larned, who was convicted Saturday of embezziement. Mr. Larned was president of the Anniston Savings and Safe Deposit Company, which falled about eighteen months since, and it was charged that he appropriated the proceeds of a note which was placed in the bank for collection to his own nse. This, Judge Lapsley, held, teh evidence falled to show and set aside the verdict of the jury. Mr. Larned now resides in Assats.

were gathered thousands of the humbler saints, who stood mute with awe and reverence at the solemnity of the occasion. Through this throng there was a native piety of the devout women, blended with all the superstition, ignorance and fanaticism. Many of them had come from the neighboring states of Arizona, New Mexico. Idaho and Montana, as well as from every valley and plain of the Utah territory, to attend mon this, the most momentous event of Mormon history, and they came literally with bed and babies in arms, that even the little offes might reap the blessings of the holy occasion. "Surely," they said, "God will not let this epoch pass without a direct and special revelation to the faithful of Zion. He will not fail to show his sanction of the great monument to his name."

Never did sect believe more strongly in the constant, direct communication of God with man, and even the ancient Hebrew looked not to the sky with more expectancy from the base of fiery Sinai than did the Mormon peasantry at their temple gates

This temple is the huge structure, the site for which was selected July 28, 1847, the fifth day after the Mormon pioneers entered the great Salt Lake valley. Brigham Young, president of the church, with a number of apostles, was prospect in the place selected as his new home, where all seemed a barren waste, and in passing the southwest corner of cane on the ground and exclaimed: "Here will be the temple of our God."

The southeast corner of a ten-acre plat, selected as the temple block, was made the initial point for laying out the city, and was afterward adopted by government officials as the base meridian line. Four years later, at the October conference of the church, in 1851, a vote of the people was taken to build a temple of the best material that can be obtained in North America. The material selected for the foundation was firestone from a canon four miles distant. When the walls came to be built, cut granite from Little Cotton-wood canon, eighteen miles distant, was chosen as the most suitable material. Prior to the advent of the railway, in 1870, this rock had to be hauled by ox and mule teams. On February 6, 1853, ground was broken and 250 men put to work on the excavation. On the 6th of April following, the corner stones were laid, sixteen feet below the surface of the ground.

When Johnston's army came through in 1858, the foundation of the temple was entirely covered with earth, and the people moved south from Salt-Lake for a time. Four years after this, work was resumed on the behilding can the contact of the contact of the contact of the content of t years later, at the October conference of

Description of the Temple.

The building is 186 1-2 feet long and 99 feet wide. With the towers it covers an area of 21,850 square feet. The foundation wall is sixteen feet thick and sixteen feet deep. On this, granite walls are nine feet thick at the bottom and narrow to six feet at the square. There are six towers, three on the east and three on the west. The corner towers are twenty-six feet high and on the west 194 feet. The east central tower of the building is 222 1-2 feet high, surmounted by a figure with a trumpet to his lips, proclaiming the gospel. The east-ern part of the temple is for the Melchisdore priesthood, representing the higher or spiritual officers. The west is of the Aaronic priesthood, representive of temporal existence. The figure on the east central tower symbolized the angel named in the fourteenth chapter, sixth verse, of John's revelation. The cost of the building, as near as can be ascertained, will be slightly in excess of $5,000,000.

Bronght "Two Sticks" Back.

Pine Ridge, S. D., April 3.—Captain Brown, Indian agent, left this morning for No Waters camp, about sixteen miles from here, to bring Two Sticks and White-Face-Horse, the two ring leaders of the Indiana who killed the four white men on this reservation on the night of February 2, 1803. Captain Brown took the agency physician. Dr. Daniel, and one policeman with him. Brown ins just returned and brought back Two Sticks and would have brought white-Face-Horse, but Dr. Daniel and many brought white-Face-Horse, but Dr. Daniel argument him and found he was very badly

EARNEST AND PATRIOTIC ENTERPRISE

Has Accomplished Much, Not Only for South Georgia, but for the Whole State.

Albany, Ga., April 6.—(Special.)—On "Nancy Hanks," all dressed in royal blue, from Atlanta to Macon was a flight almost as swift as the swallow's—in fact, what went down with the "swallows" in Atlanta to I colock was seen well well at the state of the state of the swallows. at 1 o'clock was scarcely well settled when we got to Macon at 4 o'clock. Thence on to Albany was a matter of less than four hours more, and we entered the grand osautauqua tent as the last strains of the werture drew out the enthusiastic applause of more than a thousand entranced listen-

This Chautauqua Is Great

Not because it has grounds that cover hundreds of acres, costly buildings, myri-ads of cottages and all the ancillary attach-ments that make the original Chautauqua practically a university city. But this as sembly is great because it is the fruitage of earnest and patriotic Georgia enterprise, because it is in one of the most charming of Georgia cities, and because it is doing a work for taste, solid gulture and public in-struction along practical lines that was needed and is being received with eager-

No man can estimate how much good has been accomplished by the four proceeding assemblies, save that all agree that this fifth one is away and ahead of all the others in the matters of interest an enthusiasm, showing that the people appreciate the purpose of the movement, look to it for substancial benefits in the way of public culture, and intend to make it one of the popular recurrent features of their intellectual and established

How Easily It Is Done.

The management of this chautauqua did not commit the folly of expending their strength and money on vast and costly equipment. They arranged to use the courthouse for class and lecture rooms and then at the rear of the building stretched then at the rear of the building stretched a mammoth tent, floored, seated with chairs, lighted with electricity—and they were ready for business. The arrangement is simple, cheap and thoroughly adequate. Practiced directors and lecturers, such as Dr. W. A. Duncan, of the original chautauqua, Colonef F. W. Parker, the famous educator of Chicago; Professor H. R. Palmer, the celebrated musical director of New Yark; Dr. Edward Anderson, of Yale, and others of lesser and local fame, but eminently efficient, make up a corps of instructors that give full chautauqua courses, and the finest direction to art, music and physfinest direction to art, music and phys What Albany has done in the way that

What Albany has done in the way that Albany does it, could be repeated in Georgia splendidly, effectually and with countless benefits to all classes of the people, at such points as Rome, Newman, Gainesville, Griffin, Fort Valley and Waycross. I mention these cities because they are points with connections that would make the assemblies accessible to large numbers of people. The benefits to the children and young people from the usual exercises of these chautauquas are immense. They stimulate study, excite emolation in matters of taste in art and music, set the old folks to thinking upon the practical blessings that come from art and music, set the old looks to thinking upon the practical blessings that come from refined pursuits and put all men on judgment that higher education is not a fad, or a waste of time and treasure. Here the teachers from this whole region of country gather and the things they learn bring them into touch with the highest progress of the science of education. learn bring them into touch with the high-est progress of the science of education. Half a dozen of them told me last night at the hotel that any one of the lectures they had heard since coming here was worth to them, practically in their profession, double the money it had cost them to come and remain during the ten days. This is but one phase of the general good that is done by these assemblies. They would be blessings to Georgia in a dozen localities easy to name.

This session of the chautauqua began on Sunday with a sermon by the distinguished Chancellor Sims, of the Syracuse university. It was a superb discourse and greatly admired the state of t

Monday was made notable by an address by Rev. Dr. W. D. Powell, the famous Baptist missionary to Mexico. It was a most instructive revelation of native life, religious conditions and missionary endeavors in the land of the ancient Aztees.

Tuesday was to have been "press day," with the acute accent upon an address from the versatile and accomplished Gazaway Hartridge, of the Savannah Press, but by the fault of the locomotive or some other mishap to the motive power of the railroad, Gazaway and his "Girl of the Period" came to a full stop somewhere short of Albany and the chatauquans were deeply disappointed. Chancellor Sims lectured at night on the "Philosopher's Stone" and made everybody believe he had the grit in his gizzard if he would only apply it in the higher and sublimer duties of life.

Educational Day. Educational Day.

Yesterday was made memorable by two magnificent addresses, the first from Hon. S. D. Bradwell, the state superintendent of education, and the second from Dr. Warren A. Candler, of Emory college. Both were valuable speeches, but that of Dr. Candler on "We Common People and Our Common Schools" was full of wit, eloquence and timely statesmanship upon the great theme of popular education. Dr. Candler took the assembly by storm.

The grand concert last evening was one of the finest popular musical exhibitions, perhaps, that has ever occurred in Georgia. The chorus is made up of an array of hundreds of superb voices. Dr. Palmer has brought them into a state of artistic training that makes them resopnsive to the slightest wave of his batton. The concert was the theme of unbroken praises.

Tomorrow morning Dr. Edward Anderson, of Yale, will ecture.

SAM W. SMALL.

SMALL AT CHAUTAUQUA.

The Atlanta Orator Receives an Ovation Will Graves Get There?

Albany, Ga., April 6.—(Special.)—To-day has been educational day at the Georgia chautauqua and has ended in a magnificent success. The event of the day's exercises was the lecture this afternoon by Rev. Sam W. Small, of Atlanta, on the subject of "Is Our Civilization a Failure?" With the possible exception of the opening exercises Mr. Small spoke to the largest audience that has yet greeted a chautauqua orator. People came here from all over southwest Georgia to hear him speak and those coming were not disappointed. In the delivery of his lecture Mr. Small occupied an hour and fifty minutes, a period of time no other chautauqua orator had ever consumed and yet held the closest attention of the great audience from beginning to end. Notwithstanding the great reputation he has made in other fields as an orator, the great expectations of the people who heard him for the first time today were surprised and Sam Small stands in their estimation as one of the greatest living orators. In his lecture Mr. Small answered the interrogation of his subject with a glorious tribute to America and its institutions, which he said would grow greater as the years rolled on. But he warned the people against forgetting God. "This is a Christian country," said Mr. Small, "discovered in the providence of God by a Christian discoverer to become a haven of liberty for the oppressed of all lands. God has been with its people in all their struggles, but when they come to forget Him destruction as a nation would follow and, like ancient Babylon and Nineva, the generations of the future would see in the uncovered relics of our former greatness the lesson of our forgetfulness of the Creator."

Mr. Small's peroration, which was an greatness the lesson of our forgettimess of the Creator."

Mr. Small's peroration, which was an arraignment of the barrooms, was sublime. Nothing like it before was ever heard on the chautauqua platform. The audience seemed entranced and when he had finished such an ovation as was extended him proved the capture of the audience by his magic words.

It is feared that John Temple Graves will not reach here in time for his lecture tomorrow morning. He telegraphed this afternoon that he had missed connection in Atlanta and was wired to get an engine and come on. If he fails to come there will be great disappointment. S. J. C.

MR. COMER DENIES IT.

He Says the Statement Seat Out from Augusta Is Not Correct.

Savannah, Ga., April 6 .- (Special.)-Re ceiver Comer gave out an emphatic denial today of the statement sent out from Augusta last night to the effect that securi-ties deposited with the Mercantile Trust Company would be liable for expenses in-curred in reorganizing the property and also that new loans had been contracted with Hollins & Co., and the Mercantile Trust Company.

Mr. Comer says that only the securities of the Central Railroad Company would be liable for the expenses incurred, and they only so far as approved by the courts in legitimate expenses of carrying out the

"It is plainly stated in the agreement," said he, "that none of the securities de posited by individuals are to be held liable for any expenses whatever, and if, by any chance, the reorganization should fail the company must obligate itself to return the same securities to the former holders. Individuals entering the reorganization incur no expense whatever, but receive in the event of success securities in exchange as per tabulated statement. "The statement that any new loans have been contracted is also false. Oustanding obligations to the amount of $5,194,269, in-obligations to the amount of $5,194,269, including the Speyer loan, have simply been consolidated and taken up by Hollins & Co., and the Mercantile Trust Company. These are only mere fabrications intended to embarrass the Central's interests."

It was learned today that Pat Calhoun appeared before the board of directors last night and spoke for an hour explaining why he had brought suit in Judge Jackson's court in behalf of Simon Borg & Co., and Brown & Co., against foresclosure. He said he did not regard such a sale as called for, and thought a foreclosure to the disadfor, and thought a foreclosure to the disadvantage of all security holders. He stated further that he would be ready to give an idea of his plan of the reorganization when the case was called on April 20th. Mr. Calbon said the only object of the intervention was to secure a stay of proceedings and let the public know that another and better plan of reorganization was in for-the course othe meeting that Mr. Schiff had written from New York stating that the outlook was bright and the plan would certainly go through.

THE ENGINEERS AND THE COURTS.

A Statement Asked of the Lake Shore-Will Take an Appeal.

Toledo, O., April 6.-The total division of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers will make a formal demand or request of th Lake Shore grievance committee for the railroad's reinstatement of its engineers, who left its services on the night of March 17th, because they wouldn't handle Ann Arbor freight cars. This statement was made this afternoon by Chairman J. W. Watson, of the Lake Shore company of the brotherhood. He thought that the company would not hesitate to grant the request, as the men had only done what they were in duty bound to do by the brotherhood.

It is a case that the brotherhood has never met with before and that they will proceed with considerable caution in making the request there is no doubt. Should Mr Caniff refuse and be sustained in his refu sal, trouble may be looked for on the Lake Shore with its engineers. There was some Shore with its engineers. There was some talk among them of quitting the service of the Lake Shore last Monday when the decisions of the federal court were delivered, but this was stopped before it had spread to any extent. The men have requested of the brotherhood to be reinstated and when the men of one road refuse to handle another road's property because the brotherbrotherhood is in duty bound to stand by those men if they request a reinstatement.

Their Attorney in Washington.

Washington, April 6.—Thomas H. Harner.

Washington, April 6.—Thomas H. Harper, of Terre Haute, Ind., general attorney for the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, arrived in Washington today. Mr. Harper was asked if he had come to make an appeal to the supreme court from the decisions of Judges Ricks and Taft against the Ann Arbor strikes. He said that was not his business at present, but it would be done business at present, but it would be done business at present, but it would be done later on.

"As we understand the law," said Mr. Harper, "there is no such thing as an appeal from the decision of a judge in a contempt case. When I left Toledo at the close of the case against Messrs. Arthur and Sargent, it was understood among the lawyers representing the defendants that should Judge Ricks decide against the men that they, or at least one of them, would refuse to pay his fine and be committed for said refusal and that a writ of habeas corpus would be applied for and in that case can be brought to the supreme court case can be brought to the supreme court Paris, April 6.—The morning session of the Paris, April 6.—The morning session of the Behring sea court of arbitration today was dull and even the eloquence of such pleaders as Attorney General Russell and J. GUNNING FOR EACH OTHER.

A!Texas Congressman and an Ex-Banker in a Street Fight.

Houston, Tex., April 6.-This afternoon great excitement was created in the center of the business portion of the city by an encounter between Congressman J. C. Hutchison and W. O. Ellis, an ex-banker Hutchison came upon Ellis with a drawn pistol, and said he heard that Ellis was looking for him. A gentleman with Ellis. seeing Hutchison's pistol, threw himself between the men and grabbed Hutchison Ellis retreated a few paces and drew his pistol. There was great excitement for a few moments; then outsiders interfered and further trouble was prevented. Both men were arrested. The trouble was caused by circulars printed and spread broadcast during the last campaign making a bitter attack on Hutchison. More trouble is feared when the men meet again.

THEY FOUGHT ALL NIGHT.

And Tired the Audience More Than They Did Each Other.

Olympic Club Arena, New Orleans, April 6.—Andy Bowen, of this city, and Jack Burke, of Texas, fought tonight for the light-weight championship of the south and a purse of $2,500, of which $500 to the loser, before the largest audience ever assembled in the arena of the famous Olympic Club, The men were to weigh 133 pounds at the ring side. Both men were in perfect condition and the betting was slightly in favor of Bowen. Professor John Duffy was chosen referee, while Captain Billy Barrett was in charge of the police detail. Mr. Charles Noel, president of the Crescent City Athletic Club was an interested spectator and was the object of much interest at the ring-side. Both men were in perfect con-trouble:

"On the night of the 25th ultimo, Marion Byant, Coot Yaughn and my brother, W. J.
Hatchett, were on their way to Fort Valley.
While going along the public road, fust before reaching Steve Bassett's house, while laughing and talking in the road, where they had a perfect right, they were fired upon with shotgung from ambush by Bassett or his negroes, who were secreted behind a well, about sixty yards, over the fence, in a grove.
Scime of the shot struck Marion Bryant's elothing and one entered his hand. After about sixty yards, over the hand. After going up the road about thirty yards, they decided to investigate the matter as to who fired the guns. After getting over the fence they went on to the well and while Bryant was talking to Bassett as to why he was shooting at them on the public highway, my brother walked around the well and was shoot had concealed near the well. They were in no ditch, as set forth by your correspondent, as there is certainly no ditch near the well. Yaughn went to my brother after he fell and found that he was dead, and became frightened and left Bryant alone went done, he remarked to Bassett that my brother was a dead man, and he carelessly answered that he believed the was. Bryant then came to notify the family. "Bryant and Yaughn had no firearms of any description. My brother had a pistol loaned to him by me on Saturday afternoon while rabbit hunting. When I gave it to him it contained four cartridges and one empty shell. At Mrs. Bryant's he shot one of the cartridges, which left three loaded, which were in the pistol when found. The pistol belonged to me and after the inquest I went to Cooper and demanded it. He gave it up minus the cartridges. On the following Tuesday I demanded of him the cartridges. He referred me to Sam Nell, one of the jurors. I approached him and he informed me that he did not remember them, that when he took the pistol at the inquest he was considerably under the influence of wine and the took the pistol at the inquest he was considerably under the influence of wine and the pistol was taken from him by some one. FUNERAL OF MRS. CLAYTON. It Will Take Place This Afternoon from the Central Presbyterian Church.

Central Presbyterian Church.

The funeral of Mrs. W. W. Clayton will occur this afternoon, at 4 o'clock, from the Central Presbyterian church.

Dr. G. B. Strickler, the pastor, will conduct the services, assisted by Dr. Barnett, and possibly one or two other clergymen.

Mrs. Clayton was widely known and very greatly beloved in Atlanta, in which the greater part of her life was spent. During the troublous days of the late war she was a ministering angel in the confederate hospitals which were located in this city, and the wounds of many a soldier were lovingly dressed by her gentle hands.

The memory of such a pure spirit will long abide among the scenes in which she labored, and thousands there are who can rise up and call her blessed, for her works do "praise her in the gates."

Mrs. Clayton was an active member of the Lalies' Memorial Association, in which organization she took a special pride, and of which she was one of the original organizers.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY GARY SWORN IN.

Macon, Ga., April 6.—(Special.)—Will Judge James L. Boynton, of Griffin, resign from the superior court beuch of the lint circuit, a position which the dis-tinguished and popular gentleman has held for several years? The Constitution's correspondent is prompted to ask this question by what a gentleman visitor to Macon from southern Georgia told him today. As is generally known, ex-Judge John 1. Hall, of Griffin, who has recently been appointed assistant attorney general of the United States, is attorney for the Central United States, is attorney for the Central Railroad and Banking Company of Georgia with his headquarters at Griffin. It was thought that Judge Hall might resign his railroad attorneyship since the duties of his new position as assistant United States attorney will necessarily carry him to Washington to live, and that Judge Boynton would resign from the bench to accept the position held by ex-Judge Hall as Central railroad attorney. The Constitution is authoritatively informed today that the Central railroad has requested Judge Hall not to resign, but to continue his connection as its atforney. Judge Hall have to have some one associated with him in the railroad attorneyship, and it is possible that Judge Boynton may resign from the bench and attend to the business of the Central road in association with Judge Hall. The Constitution cannot speak Hall. The Constitution cannot speak authoritatively as to Judge Boynton's resignation, though it is one of the rumors in the air and is being circulated a little in Macon.

Macon.

What a Griffin Men Says.

The Constitution asked a Griffin man today who would probably be elected Judge Hall's successor as representative to the legislature from Spalding, when he resigns to go to Washington. The Griffinite said that the two names now being mentioned for the place are Dr. Drewry and Attorney Daniel, either of whom would make a splendid representative.

The Finance Chalrmanship.

Judge Hall is the able chairman of the Attorney Daniel, either of whom would make a splendid representative.

The Finance Chairmanship.

Judge Hall is the able chairman of the finance committee of the present to the committee of the legislature, the chairmanship becomes vacant. Who will Speaker Atkinson make chairman? Very Probably Hon. William H. Fleming, of Augusta, will be appointed, for he now occupies the thirst position on the committee next to the chairman and has served longer in the legislature than any other member of the committee, except Hon. A. O. Bacon, and that gentleman stated at the commencement of the last session that he dinot wish and would not have a chairmanship, as he desired to be a free lance on the floor. The chairmanship of the finance committee at the next session will not be very important, however, for all the appropriations and the tax rates were made by the last session for the years 1893 and 1894, so there will be comparatively little for the finance committee to do next session. Attorney Gary Sworn In.

This morning Major W. T. Gary arrived from Augusta and was sworn in as United States attorney for the Southern district of Georgia. He appeared very well, indeed, and seemed to be exceedingly pleasd with all mankind. On Major Gary's induction into his new office of attorney Judge Speer spoke from the bench as follows:

"The court is very glaft to have the privilege of welcoming as district attorney for the southern district of Georgia, a gentleman of Mr. Gary's elevated character and high professional abnoties.

"In taking leave of Mr. Erwin as district attorney the court feels that it is proper to express our high appreciation of the admirable efficiency, diligence, ability and fairness with which Mr. Erwin has deported himself as district attorney for the past four years. In a recent conversation with the late attorney general of the United States, Mr. Miller, that distinguished officer, expressed in unmeasured terms his appreciation of the every prondest features of the four years administration of the attorney fo manner in which he had conducted himself in certair, important criminal cases constituted one of the very proudest features of the four years administration of the attorney general. I am sure the court wishes Mr. Erwin, in his professional life, the continued marked success and the thorough enjoyment of public confidence which he has already had; and he anticipates for Mr. Gary an equal success, effectiveness and public appreciation in the duties of the office which he has just assumed.

"The marshal also will have a very high standard to maintain in the administration of his office. Mr. Corbett has been a remarkably efficient marshal, prompt, courteous, industrious and faithful to his duties. The court has a good reason to believe that the new marshal will maintain that standard."

The retiring attorney, Mr. Marion Erwin, made a few appropriate remarks of welcome to his successor and in elequent learners.

consideration it had always shown him.

Attorney Terrell Hunting Taxes.

Georgia's able, faithful and handsome attorney general, Hon. Joe Terrell, is in the city today. He appeared before Judge Emory Speer and obtained an order directing Receiver Comer, of the Central road, to pay $33,896.64 of state taxes due by the Central road and its branch lines. There was no opposition to the granting of the order. Joe Terrell has many friends here who are always glad to see him.

Congressman Cabaniss Here.

Congressman-elect Tom Cabaniss came up from Forsyth this morning and spent the day. He leaves tomorrow for Washington city, and will be there about ten days. He has been devoting a great deal of time late to trying to learn the views and wishes of his constituents in regard to who ought to be postmayers of their retime late to trying to learn the views and wishes of his constituents in regard to who ought to be postmasters of their respective towns. He has a great job on his hands to determine the question. There are numerous applicants for every postoffice in the district, but Millidgeville leads with her thirteen candidate. The office pays about $2,000 per annum, but will pay more in a year or two possibly. There are seven candiadtes for the postoffice at Macon, towit: Will Turpin, H. E. Oliver, Daisy Price, W. C. Singleton, Dick Findley, Jerry Hollis and F. W. Glover.

The Constitution was informed today that if a majority of the stockholders of the Southwestern road, at the meeting to be held here April 15th, vote to go into the reorganization proposed for the Cenarl road, certain ones of the minority stock-holders will certainly take legal steps to enjoin the reorganization so far as Southwestern railroad in concerned.

NEARLY FIVE MONTHS AT SEA

On the Little Yacht Syren, with Death Staring Them in the Face-Were They Victims of a Plot?

Savannah, Ga, April 6.—(Special.)—The little yacht, Syren, Captain Robins Purdy, commanding, will sail tomorrow for Ber-muda, having been fully repaired and put in a seagoing conditon.

The voyage of this yacht from London to this port, driven as she was by the force of the wind and waves, is of usual interest. The little vessel is just fifty feet long, and of twelve tons' capacity. In October last she left England in charge of Captain Purdy and, with a crew of three seamen, bound for Bermuda. The steam apparatus had been taken off and the hole left by the removal of the propeller made the vessel unusually hard to steer. It was fitted with two sails, and the chronometer put on board was so badly out of time, ac-the vessel unusually hard to steer. It was fitted with two sails, and the chronometer put on board was so badly out of time, according to the certificate, that it was practically impossible for the captain to get his longitude. The chronometer, according to the certificate, whis twenty seconds slow, and gained "about" a minute daily.

In this condition the yacht was started for Bermuda, where, it was said, the owner had large plantations, and wished to use the Syren in connection with them. In such a shape it was totally unseaworthy, as was proved during a long and rough voyage. The contract made was for three months, but after the crew had been out about seventy-rive days, and were apparently away off the track of their destination, provisions gave out and it was found that the last cask of water in the hold had been poisoned. Drinking it, they all became sick, and were on the point several times of giving up the yacht as lost and taking their chances in the life boat. While sick from the poisoned water the captain broke his sextant, and so lost all means of locating himself on the high seas. The crew was sick for several days, and it is considered that nothing short of a miracle could have kept it afloat during all the severe weather and misfortunes with which they met.

They fortunately obtained provisions and water once or twice from passing vessels, and allowed the yacht to float on with the wind until they reached the South Carolina const, at Port Royal, exhausted, worn out and almost ready to give up. The yacht was towed into Savannah by the tup Forest City, reaching here after a voyage of 138 days, from London, during the roughest weather and worst season known on the Atlantic during the year.

The crew learned before leaving that the vessel had been insured by its owner for nearly 2,000 pounds, or about $10,000 in American money, which is just about double its value. Putting this together, with the unseaworthy condition of the Syren, and the fact that the water aboard had been poisoned by some means or ed out of the cask into the air. The arrangement of the yacht's sidelights was also such that any vessel meeting it could not tell from which direction it was coming, as they crossed each other. Those who examined the yacht came to the same conclusion, saying that from all the facts in the case, such was probably the intention of the owners. The large insurance, the poisoned water and the yacht's equipments certainly looked suspicious.

When the vessel arrived here the owner was telegraphed by the British consul, and there was no alternative but for him to send money to have her put in a searoing condition, and to pay the scamen. The seamen refused to go with the yacht to Bermuda, and they were at first refused pay, as deserters of a ship in distress. But the misfortunes with which they met were finally taken into consideration by the consul and they were paid. Captain Purdy, however, agreed to fulfill his contract in spite of his suspicion as to the intent of the owners. The boat has been refitted, the chronometer corrected, and she is now in a better condition to meet the gales.

Captain Purdy, with his new crew, sailed today for Bermuda to deliver the yacht as per the orders he received.

Subsequently the board organized by electing W. L. Kilpatrick, president, E. T. Mallory, secretary. The convention authorized the trustees of Mercer university to donate a lot to the Tatnall Square Baptist church, and the trustees resolved to do so.

Dr. Taylor presented the committee's report on education, favoring it in an admirable address. Excellent speeches on the report were also made by Professor Willett, Dr. Battle, Professor Soles, of Atlanta seminary: Clem P. Steed, E. R. Kilog and Professor Cox, of LaGrange. Professor Cox delighted his addience by his splendid effort.

Interesting and instructive reports were made by other standing committees, many capital speeches being delivered by prominent members before their adoption. The report of the committee on temperance evoked a lively discussion on the recommendation favoring the dispensary system, provided nothing better could be had for suppressing the liquor evil. The convention eliminated this from the report, thus declaring itself opposed to selling whisky in any manner whatever and squarely favoring prohibition.

The issue between the trustees of the Hearn High school and the executive committee was referred to a special committee of J. E. Willett, R. B. Headden, W. M. Bridges, G. S. Tumlin, with instructions to settle the mat chair. The result of the election of trustes of

MANY TRUE BILLS

Against the Rioters.

ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-FIVE THE DEPOSITORS AND THEIR MONEY

Have Already Been Found-Mr. Benford Talks-Some Threatening

Carrollton, Ga., April 6.—(Special.)—
The grand jury of Carroll county, now in session, is bringing the rioters of New Mexico district to taw in a way that they will not relish. Something near one hundred and twenty-five true bills were found yesterday against persons said to be in the whipping, an account of which has been published in The Constitution. Dr. Dan L. Rodgers, who has heretofore given bond in this case, was rearrested after the true bills were found and Judge S. W. Harris fixed his bond at $1,000 in one case or $7,000 in the seven cases that the grand jury have returned true bills. The doctor, who is well connected in Carrollton, did not make bond and he is now in jail awaiting trial. At this rate eighteen of the rioters will go behind the bars or make bonds to the amount of $7,000. Dr. Rodgers's bond has scared all who are connected with these cases. A true bill has been returned against Henry Benford for rape. There is much excitement in these cases and some sensational developments are expected every day. Judge Harris will punish the offenders where their gulit is proven. The state will be represented by Colonel Ed Watkins, Cobb & Bro., of this city and James & Carter, of Bowden. A number of the accused rioters have employed very able counsel and every inch this city and James & Carter, of Bowden.
Anumber of the accused rioters have employed very able counsel and every inch of ground will be fought vigorously. The defendants rely on proving alibis and in some cases they will attempt to impeach the state witnesses, vis: Mrs. White, Mrs. Bowen and others.

Mr. J. H. L. Benford Talks.

The Constitution reporter had a talk with Mr. J. H. L. Benford, father of Henry and Price Benford, who are alleged to be connected with the crimes, today. He says that the whipping was an outrage. He also said most all the parties whinged were of bad character and that hundreds of people would expert that they would were of bad character and that hundreds of people would swear that they would not believe them on oath. Mr. Benford says the real reason, in his opinion, has never been given for the whipping of Mrs. White, Mrs. Bowen, Sam Bowen the Britts and Frank Eason. He says Bowen said after the whipping that one of the crowd told him (Bowen) that he (Bowen) and his crowd, meaning the whipped parties, had reported about a dozen distilleries, but they had better never do so again. He also said that the mob told the victims not 40 appear at the court ground the next day. It is intimated that the Bowbut they had better never do so again. He also said that the mob told the victims not 40 appear at the court ground the next day. It is intimated that the Bowens, Britts, Eason and the Whites have been engaged in illicit distilling, but have turned against the business now and have been reporting the stills to the revenue officers. Mr. Benford says it is hard for a man who has lived in Carroll county for twenty-two years to be persecuted, and such characters as Mrs. White and others are the cause of it. On the other hand some of Mrs. Bowen's neighbors say she is of good character and a strict member of the Baptist church. They say the same of Sam Bowen and Frank Eason.

Some Threatening Letters.

The white cap crowd or some one else have written several threatening letters. One of these was directed to W. A. Yates, the bailiff of New Mexico district, and who has taken considerable interest in arresting and ferreting out the guilty parties. The letter was found near Yates's home and it was read by the grand jury today. In the letter the names of Rick Eyrd and Willie Chambers occur.

Yates's home and it was read by the grand jury today. In the letter the names of Rick Byrd and Willie Chambers occur. These two boys were with the rioters and have confessed the whole thing. They told the matter to the grand jury, so I presume, today, notwithstanding the threat in the letter below. Here is the letter received by Baillff Yates:
"Joel, Ga., March 31, 1893.—Mr. Alvin Yates, Rick Byrd and Willie Chambers: Bro. Alvin:—We are not connected with this trouble in our settlement on either Bro. Alvin:—We are not connected with this trouble in our settlement on either side, but we are members of Pleasant Grove church, and have been living in this county for fifteen or twenty years in perfect peace, and we see our settlement is going to be ruined if there is not something done. This is all caused by a set who are low down and mean. You know this as well as we do. It seems that you are taking sides with this mean and trashy set, and as we know you well. this as well as we do. It seems that you are taking sides with this mean and trashy set, and as we know you well and wish you well, and have known your father so long we want you to stay where you are at and have no more to do with it, for you know they have got men into it who are not guifty and these are members of our church at that. It is very wrong for the innocent to have to suffer and we don't intend that they shall. We have this to say: If either of you three go in court and swear anything that will condemn a man in this settlement we will see that you all suffer worse than they do. We cannot, and will not, see our families dragged about in the way they have been. We have made our settlement a good one and if it has got to be torn all to pieces and ruined we propose to go with it. It is a shame to think you would take sides with such a set as you have and we are rendy to forgive you if you will stop where you are, but if you do piek that ignorant Rich Byrd and then make him go to court and there you and him swear against one of our members or one of our settlement into this thing, you ought to suffer and we expect to see that you do. We hate to have anything to do with anything of this sort, but—we can't stand and see our settlement ruined in such a way as this. We had rather be dead, and will die, before we will be still and see our children and kinfolks and church members ruined. If We had rather be dead, and will die, before we will be still and see our children and kinfolks and church members ruined. If we can't control you by kind means, we are going to do it the best way we can. Now, you can tell the boys that they can and must keep their mouths shut. Rich Byrd can leave here and you had better let him go and tell him that the best thing that he can do is to shut his mouth and know nothing. Tell him to leave and stay gone. "Now, Alvin, the truth is, you are getting yourself where the public will never like you again. We want peace and we say plainly that we are not going to have any of you there to swear against the accused parties. If Rick Byrd does swear against them we will know you were the cause of

A postscript says: "Now, Alvin, we do all this writing as friends and you had better hear us and make those boys shut their mouths and you do the same."

Bill Billops is on trial in Judge Henry's superior court for murder, and the trial has been in progress for two days. Billops killed a young negro named Will Smith, by stabbing him in the heart on the night of August 29, 1892. Billops was boarding with a woman who claimed to be his wife, and Smith boarded at the same place. On the night of the murder Billops went home drunk and finding Smith there attacked him with a pocket knife and instanty killed him. A large number of witnesses have been examined and the trial is likely to go on for some time.

The Patrons of the New Shoe Store May Be Sure of Getting Dollar

Atlanta is noted for its many magnificent buildings and lovely stores. Among the latter is the elegant new shoe establishment of Messrs. Byck Bros. & Co., No. 27 White hall street, and great pleasure is taken in introducing them to the people of this city.

These gentlemen have spared no expense in fitting up complete the handsomest shoe store in the south. This is a broad state ment, but easily verified. Their win are very prettily draped, around which are French plate mirrors that reflect beautiful footwear in endless variety. Their exqui-site gilt electric display fixtures were specially designed for them by James Rail, of Boston, Mass., and are the finest that can Boston, Mass., and are the finest that can be made. The inside of the store is very tastefully arranged; the floor is covered with inlaid tiled linoleum and moquette carpet, and rows of opera chairs line either side. The shelving is highly polished oak, interspersed with French plate mirrors, and is in the latest style. The main attraction, however, is the variety and quality of their goods, which comprise the best make of shoes in the United States. Every shoe or slipper has been specially made for them and is of the latest design and newest shape. They will carry all widths, and can fit perfectly any foot, whether narrow, widelong or short, and at the same time, suit your eye and foot, as well as pocket. Their motto is not how cheap, but how good, at the lowest possible price for quality.

The Messrs, Byck have had years of experience in this business and are fully up with the times. If you desire to be courteonsly waited on, properly fitted, and at the same time see some of the nobbiest and most fashionable and artistic footwern that was ever made, give them a call. An invitation is extended to our renders to inspect their, new establishment; they will be open for business tomorrow morning. be made. The inside of the store is very

JONESBORO TO HAVE A JUVENILE MAYOR.

Gus Morrow, Age Twenty-One, to Be the Youngest Mayor in Georgia.

Georgia's supply of mayors is to receive a notable addition in a few weeks in the person of Gus Morrow, who is to be elected chief magistrate of the town of Jonesboro.

Many Atlantians know us and they would never associate his jolly demeanor with the dignity of a mayority. But they are irmly persuaded that his public spirit and broad mindedness will make him one of the best mayors in the state. Gus will bear the distinction not-alone of being the youngest mayor in the state but the most juvenile mayor ever known in the state. He is just twenty-one and his election at this early age is a proof of his popularity.

It is understood that when he gets hold of the reins of Jonesboro's local government he will consider the question of annexation as it relates to the annexation of Atlanta to Jonesboro.

WILL MEET TONIGHT.

The Movement for a New Uniform Division Will Take Shape.

Will Take Shape.

Tonight, at the office of Captain W. H. Harrison, in the capitol, the movement for a consolidation of the three divisions U. R. K. P., will take shape.

The meeting will be held at 8 o'clock. At it the officers and members of the uniform division, with some especially invited friends, will discuss the proposed consolidation and will probably elect officers.

It is thought the new division will bear the name "Gate City Division, No. 5."

SOME OLD MONEY

perty of Judge Rengan, of Conyers, Ga., April 6.—(Special.)—A few days ago Judge Joseph Reagan showed us some very curious old money, two bills and one gold coin. The gold piece was what is sometimes called individual money, and had very plainly stamped on one side "A Bechtler." "I dollar." on the other, "Carolina gold," "27 G." "21 C." The coin was very litle worn indeed. The two bills were also remarkably well preserved, and printed in plain, large type across the end of each was "Continental Currency," followed by the value of the bill, which was "one-third of a dollar," and "Four dollars," respectively. Also on the face of the one-third dollar was printed "One-third of a dollar. No. 49085, according to a resolution of congress passed at Philadelphia, February 17, 1776." And on the back of the same bill is "Printed by Hall & Sellers, in Philadelphia, 1776."

On the front of the four-dollar bill is printed.

Hall & Sellers, in Philadelphia, 1776."

On the front of the four-dollar bill is printed, "This bill entitles the bearer to receive four Spanish milled dollars, or the value thereof in gold or silver according to the resolution of congress held at Philadelphia May, 1772; IV dollars." "(35011)." There was also a sort of seal motto on the front as follows: "Aut inars aut vita decora." On the back of this bill was: "Printed by Hall & Seller, in Philadelphia, 1775." On each bill there were numerous mark on each bin there were numerous markings to guard against counterfeits.

These pieces of money are very rare specimens, and no doubt their owners could get a good price for them if he were disposed to sell them.

Major McIntosh Dying.

The many friends of Major Lachlan H. MeIntosh throughout Georgia, and the whole south, will be grieved to learn that he lies at the point of death, without any hope of his recovery at the residence of his sister, Mrs.
Bennett, at Red Bluff, Ga., Montgomery county. Major McIntosh is of the ancient Georgia family of that name, and is a cousin of Colonel Kell. He was a purser in the United States navy at the beginning of the war, and was appointed by Governor Brown as an aid to take part in the organization of the Georgia regiments and equipping them for the seat of war. Since the war he has been aimost constantly employed in the departments at Washington. All who knew Major McIntosh will remember him with pleasure, and receive this news of his fatal illness with profound regret. Major McIntosh Dying.

ATLANTA, GA., April 7, 1893.

Not Too Much!

A Boston editor ventures to put this inquiry in print: "Is it not more than probable that Georgia is getting too much?" That this question should be asked within the limits of Massachusetts, a state where more than half the population are making frantic efforts to get their snouts in the swill-tub, is surprising to say the least.

It is surprising because envy of this kind is not usually looked for in a community that regards itself as the center of culture and civilization-especially when that community has been fighting over the spoils in a way to alarm neighboring states.

No, esteemed contemporary, Georgia is not getting too many offices, and she doesn't want too many. Her expectations are strictly within the limits of modesty and justice. These expectations have been fully outlined by The Constitution, and there is no reason or excuse for the slightest misapprehension on the part of any person. Georgia wants no office that belongs to Massachusetts or any other state. She is not engaged in any undignified scramble for official pap. Comparatively few of her citizens are applicants for place.

So far as the offices are concerned Georgia rests her claims on ground. Other states may demand everything or nothing; Georgia wants nothing but justice. The offices, whether they are given out under the civil service law or by appointment, belong to the people, and each political division of the people-the state or commonwealth-is entitled to its fair proportion. This is Georgia's demand-these are her just expectations-that the democratic administration will cure the unjust and partisan distribution of offices established for corrupt purposes by the republicans.

This demand and these expectations have been ridiculed by various lightminded persons, but not even the shadow of an attempt has been made to dispose of them by means of fact or argument. On the contrary the principle for which The Constitution has been contending has already been partially recognized by Mr. Gresham and Mr. Carlisle. The more it is studied the more it will commend itself to the sense of justice that is inherent in the human mind. It is a principle that will be fully recognized finally, as it was in the better days of the republic when democratic doctrine controlled the government. It is true that Georgia has already received a god deal of attention at the hands of Mr. Cleveland, but the state is entitled to hundreds of places in the departments that go by appointment and to hundreds that are filled under the rules of the civil service. We have reason to believe that before this administration is a year old, the disgraceful diversion of offices instituted by the republicans for partisan purposes will be a thing of the past.

The Good Time Coming. The Warrenton Clipper says that the masses will soon have no cause for complaint. "The democrats have promised to give relief to the country with a reduction of the tariff, the free and unlimited coinage of silver, and an increase in the currency," and it adds: "We will soon see a reunited people, praising Cleveland and supporting the democratic party, all walking together hand in hand, for the protection of the people against the gamblers of Wall

This is what The Constitution he been saying in different terms, but a bitter denial has been made by Murat Halstead, the great republican editor, and now a prophet, calling himself a democrat, and said to be a prominent Georgia democrat, has made his ap-pearance in print to declare that Edi-tor Halstead is right, and that those believe in the free coinage of silver, or that the democratic platform looks in that direction, are "pharisaical democrats." There seems about to be a tremendous discussion of this question on the part of the new prophet and those who may happen to agree with him. It is a little late in the day to inquire as to the views of the people of Georgia in regard to the demonetization of silver or as to the necessity of restoring it to its old place, and it is also superfluous from the people's point of view to dismeaning they attach to the financial plank in the platform, but these matters will suffice to relieve the tedium of a summer long drawn out.

The Constitution believes that things are going to turn out pretty much as The Warrenton Clipper says, but the new prophet, peddling the doctrine of New England monometallism, looms So that we are compelled to in up. If these things happen in the green leaf, what will happen in the dry?

Public Spirit.

'At the recent banquet of the Com mercial Club in Nashville, Mr. G. H. Armistead, the secretary of the club, made a speech in which he arraigned his fellow citizens for their lack of public spirit.

The speaker pointed out rival cities where the people pulled together, and freely gave their time and money for the advancement of the general welfare, and organized a compact mass of harmonious, earnest citizenship to combat popular dangers and advocate popular benefits. Such cities forged ahead but Nashville's progress was retarded by the absence of this spirit,

It is well to bring these great truths home to the people of every community, from time to time, so that they may be deeply impressed upon the pub lic mind. The case of Atlanta is of ten referred to as an example of what may be accomplished under adverse circumstances by a united citizenship opposing everything that will injure and working for everything that will benefit the community. Without this quality, Atlanta would have remained Marthasville, and if Sherman's torches had consumed our public spirit along with our buildings, there would still be traces of the great conflagration in every quarter of the city.

But, from the very beginning, the distinguishing characteristic of Atlanta was the willingness of her people to stand shoulder to shoulder in prosperity and in adversity. This has developed Terminus by successive stages into the metropolis of the new south, and it will in a few years give us 200,000 population, and build up our suburbs swelling them into small cities.

Occasionally, the pessimistic cry is raised that Atlanta is losing her oldtime spirit, but when the proper occasion demands it there will be a ready response. Our great enterprises and our municipal government are all based upon the harmony and unity of our people. That policy has built us up, and we are not likely to abandon it at a time when we should be marching onward in a solid phalanx.

We should see to it that there shall never be any occasion here for such words of complaint as were heard in Nashville, the other night.

They Are Good Citizens.

When Judge Taft, in his recent decision, pronounced the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers "a criminal conspiracy against the laws of their country," he used unnecessarily harsh and sweeping terms.

In law the engir have violated a provision of the interstate commerce act, but it is nevertheless a well-known fact that they are a conservative body of good citizens. They are moral, industrious and peaceloving. They are noted for their faithfulness and their willingness to sacrifice themselves in the discharge of their duty. In their devotion to the interests of others they frequently lose their lives when they could insure their safety by abandoning their posts. In all the controversies between labor and capital these men have distinguished themselves by their moderation and their love of justice.

To denounce them from the bench as criminal conspirators against the laws of their country is grossly unjust. Such intemperate language simply tends to increase the restlessness and discontent now so widespread among the masses, and it should not be countenanced in any quarter. When the cause of law and order needs defenders the locomotive engineers will be found in the front ranks.

Farming Opportunities in Georgia.

In a recent article in The Southern States, Mr. C. J. Haden, of this city, makes some strong points in favor of encouraging immigration.

According to Mr. Haden, it will take 28,000,000 more people to make the population of our state as dense as it is in the northern country. Not more than half of our cleared land is under cultivation and not more than one-half of this land is half cultivated. 100,000 new and industrious farmers this land, averaging a product of $30 to the acre, will produce, if each immigrant cultivates ten acres, $30,000,-000 a year. This amount will be so much gained from our idle lands.

The advantages we offer immigrant farmers are briefly summarized by Mr. Haden. Our climate needs no advertising. The northwest may be more productive of corn and wheat, but it costs the farmers there as much to transport it to the Atlantic seaboard as it does the Georgia farmers to grow it. When corn is 17 cents in Nebraska it is 50 cents in Georgia, and this makes our twenty-five bushels to the acre offset the seventy-five bushels to the acre in the former state. Then, we have the advantage in fruits and vegetables. One acre of Le Conte pear in south Georgia yields more clear money than the average Minnesota farm. This pear tree "works for nothing and boards itself."

writer quoted from says: An acre of land in Wilcox, Dooly or Irwin counties in Georgia will grow, with fair treatment, 300 pounds of sea island cotton, worth on a low market 20 cents per pound or $60. The acre which makes this record in Georgia the sawmill operator almost entirely deared for from $2 to $5 per acre, or if in cultivation for from $5 to $10, and the taxes are $5 cents on $100. One $5-acre in Georgia yields a larger net return if planted in sugarcane than five $50-acres in Minnesota planted in wheat, and the percentage of taxation is much less than in any of the northwestern states. Bear in mind, I emphasize the fact, that it is upon the net profit and not the gross results that we found our argument. It is quite ults that we found our argument. It common for 500 gallons of syrup to be pon one acre in south Georgia, which upon one acre in south Georgia, which at the lowest market price is worth $150 at the nearest railroad station, and the cost of pro-duction differs very little from ordinary corn. Now, when all these facts, and many more on the same line are presented to the farmers of the blizzardy north west, is it not safe to predict that they will make a rush southward? They have never been told the hundredth part of the truth about Georgia. All that is needed is to get the facts before them, and when we make an organized effort we can capture them.

Playing Tricks With Petitions.

A few days ago a Chicago man went to Washington, with a petition signed by 70,000 persons, recommending him for postmaster.

After leaving Chicago a number of the more prominent signers telegraphed the president or wrote to him not to give any weight to their signatures Naturally, Mr. Cleveland is indignant. It is said that he threatens to give the names of these persons to the public in order that the people may know the men who have been guilty of this double-dealing. This is just what should be done. When a man signs a petition he should stick to it. If he has any doubts about it he should refuse to sign.

Mr. Cleveland during his first administration expressed his opinion of the worthlessness of perfunctory petitions, and he is disposed to speak even more emphatically of the practice of signing and then privately notifying him that the signatures are withdrawn. It is fortunate that the Chicago trick has been exposed so early. Applicants for office will weigh the value of a man's endorsement before they ask for it. and the signers of petitions will be more particular in allowing the use of their names. As petitions will always be made use of to some extent, it is well to have it understood that they will be accepted at their face value, and no double-dealing will be permitted. But, no matter how satisfactory the petition may appear to the casual observer, the president will doubtless read between the lines and convince himself that everything is all right and that the petition reflects local sentiment.

Georgia is not at all interested in the great rush for spoils. All that Georgia wants is the offices to which the state is entitled.

Will the hunger of the northern office seekers never be appeased?

If Editor Cockerill is after advertising he is getting it. He will soon be known as far west as Dogwood Bend.

Carter Harrison is a great democrat, and he is mayor of a great democratic city. We trust he will reform the wicked repul licans of the town.

Our esteemed though sockless friend, Hon. Jeremiah Simpson, says that if the south had not tried to seede from the union some thiry-odd years ago we would not now be paying pensions to a million people, with another half a million waiting to get on the rolls.

That may be more or less true, but it has nothing to do with the case. If pensions were a war indemnity levied against the south, that might be an argument to justify them; but actually and legally they are nothing of the kind. The south pays its share of them, but as a matter of fact they are paid by the workers, of the country, wherever they are found. There is many a negro in the south going barefoot because his net earnings must go to meet such enormous burdens as this of pensions. And in the north and west there is many a workingman's wife and

Of Editor I. D. O'Kelly, of The Rockdale Banner, The Covington Enterprise says:

"He is an aspirant for a consulate abroad and possesses every qualification to fill the position he seeks. He is a democrat, tried and true, and deserves to receive any position he seeks at the hands of a democratic administration."

The Augusta Chronicle has this to say of the address on "The Necessity of Immigration to the South," by Mr. C. J. Haden, of Atlanta: "Mr. Haden peaks by the card. He has investigated immigration in this country and in Europe. His work is attracting attention, as it well deserves."

Says The Tabotton New Era: "Hon. A. S. Clay, president of the Georgia senate, has accepted an invitation from Professor W. P. Thomas to deliver the commencement address at LeVert college on the 31st of May."

Says The Darien Gazette: "The Georgia papers are about unanimous for ballot reform. And the legislature will give it to us in Oc-tober, too."

The Monroe Advertiser is heartily in favor of an extra session of congress. It says:
"Such extra session should certainly be called early enough to have whatever changes may be made in the tariff put into operation as early as practicable so that the people may get an experimental knowledge of its practical benefits."

Says The Macon Telegraph: "There is not a man in Georgia, who does not heartily wish for the complete recovery of Senator Colquitt, and his restoration to that physical vigor, which will enable him to do the work for Georgia that he can do."

Editor McIntosh has this paragraph in The Albany Herald:

"The Constitution still sticks to its claim that Georgia is entitled to 2,500 offices under the present administration. And that's right, too. Georgia is entitled to that many and more besides if she can get them. The Constitution is attending to Georgia's interests at Washington with great earnestness and success."

The Savannah Press says of the danger of "Watsonianism:"
"If, as is intimated in a Press interview this morning. Mr. Watson is to enlarge his sphere of action and make the race for governor of Georgia the state will be tulned over to the same kind of turmoil experienced in the tenth district last fall."

Here is a cheering and jubilant item from Tifton Gazette says: "It was reported at Berrien superior court that Judge Hansell will retire from the bench at the expiration of his present term. If so, who will be the successor? We venture to say no one who will serve as long and as efficiently as he has."

As the story goes the gallant coincal swore to each nictig girl found in the country between Nickajack and Tybee light that p. g. in g. when seen in his paper had distinct and especial-reference to herself. It was a compliment not likely to pass unappreciat d, for it meant the 'prettiest girl in Georgia."

Brooklyn Standard-Union: Speaker Crisp is not an original Cleveland man, but he will be re-elected speaker all the same. Ellery An-derson's jurisdiction does not overshadow the nouse of representatives.

In explanation, he said that he knew that the president's time was occupied with other more important matters, and if he stopped to consider the subject in question, he would probably deprive the country of his services during the period so occupied. The $10. it was explained, was to defray the expense for any time lost by the president in the transaction. Private Secretary whom the letter was referred, disposed to be indignant that a bribe should disposed to be indignant that a bride should be offered the president of the United States. ROUND ABOUT IN GEORGIA.

The Washington Chronicle, booming the makes a suggestion good for all Georgia coun ties, as follows:

"There is not a spot on the American continent that offers greater natural advantages to permanent settlers than this section of Georgia. We grow here the greatest variety of products that can be produced in this country and in great abundance. These facts should be graphically brought forth at the coming convention of governors at Richmond."

"Let the good work go on. The southern people have paid out thousands of dollars for Delaware and New Jersey canned peaches, while they allowed much superior fruit to rot on the ground." The Walton News makes the following comment upon an anomalous situation in Georgia just now:

"Georgia is without her state geologist, but has a geological board, which is now a tail-less piece of authority. A happier first se-lection next time." Although the Soldiers' Home stands ntless and the trustees are in a quandary what to do with it, the matter of justice to the old soldiers and respect to the grateful work of their devoted admirers still conperns the true people of Georgia. The Mil-ledge-file Chronicle protests that the Soldiers' Home question is not a "dead issue" and re-marks further: marks further:

"The indigent heroes who fought four years for Georgia are worthy of the grandest home that our love and money could provide. Georgia will see to it that they are at least kept in comfort and held above want in their old age and helplessness."

Frank Joseph, the faithful old colored evangelist, who works among the convicts, says he is "saddened by the fact that so many of the fresh arrivals are so young, in their teens and twenties."

One of our Georgia brethren, the enterpris-ing editor of The Vienna Progress, begins to see signs that if he goes to the world's fair it must be much as he went to the war—with blanket, haversack, cooked rations and home-blanket, haversack, cooked rations and none-supplied canteen. He says:

"We received a proposition from a fellow last week who offered to give us a cot while at the world's fair for $20 a week! If grub comes that high the Georgia editors will have to pack their baskets as well as take their blankets along."

The genial editor of The Walton News, noting that some of the coffure concatenations of our grandmothers' time are to return this season, makes a remark to which we all rise up and say "Amen!" It is this:

"May the successful and general cultivation of ye olden ringlets be accompanied by a like revival of some of the grateful old-fashioned virtues."

The Macon News, remembering how much of mind, time, industry and money the Geor-gia militia boys expend to put themselves in condition to serve the state in times of peril, justly says:

instip says:
"Suppose the boys do enjoy themselves in camp? That's the only compensation they get for perfecting themselves in the military service and standing ready at all times to do battle for the commonwealth A militing force is like a gun. When it is needed it is needed bad. Georgis cannot afford to have its state troops disband in disgust."

MEN OF MARK

The Brunswick Advertiser has evidently decided that "the stormy petrel of the tenth" is a hopeless case, and says:
"Tom Watson will not change. He is going to stick to the frazzled end of friction, and go down as a calamity howler."

McIntosh, of The Albany Herald, thinks that Tom Watson makes a mistake in denying that e has withdrawn his contest against Black. "Tom would show his good sense if he did. He could save that much money to bestow upon his campaign four years hence."

Editor Stovall remarks that "The president cotinues to take a fatherly interest in Mr. R. M. Blackburn. But he has not yet assigned him to any post."

The Griffin News has surely "heard something from somewhere" to this effect:
"It is intimated that Hoke Smith is antagonizing islar harn, but this can hardly be true. Hoke is provided for himself, and there is no reason way he should object to the genuine original Cleveland man getting something."

The Griffin Call has this lively bit of com t on the pending ruction over the marshal-of this district:

ship of this district:

"General Gordon will not allow Mr. Renfroe's appointment to be confirmed, and Secretary Smith says he will resign before Colored Barry shall be appointed. It is said that the cause of the animosity and antagonism of the secretary of the litterfor to Colored Barry was because Barry was for nedicted democracy and always had been, while Secretary Smith and not, and that Barry was for Livingston while neither Mr. Smith nor his paper favor the present representative in congress."

"Major J. C. C. Black is said to be backing Colonel Renfroe for the marshaiship. This is a feather in Renfroe's cap."

The mishaps which afflict some of our Geor-

NOTES.

Thrown Open Before Long.

ITS FUNDS WILL BE MOVED TODAY

All the Cash Will Be Transferred to the Atlanta National.

TO RETURN TO CIRCULATION AGAIN. There Is About $200,000 in Hard Money

Locked Up in the Vaults-Mr. Hill Will Probably Sell the Property.

The money locked up in the vaults of the Gate City bank will be turned back into cirulation today.

Ordered by the Comptroller. Mr. Stone, the examiner in charge, was directed by the comptroller of the currency yesterday to transfer the funds in the bank to the Atlanta National bank. The work of counting the funds and removing them will begin this morning. This is not a usual proceeding, but to meet the general desire to have the money unlocked, the comptroller took this step and it solves the problem, so far as getting the money back into circulation. Depositors do not get their money vet but the $200,000 or more in actual cash now in the Gate City bank will be in another national bank, which can loan it out as the demand is made.

The Bank Will Liquidate

It has been decided also to liquidate. That is, the bank will not go into the hands of a receiver if present plans can be carried out, and there is every reason to believe that they can be. Mr. Stone thinks that the bank will soon have enough money in hand to open the doors and pay every depositor as fast as they come up. That is liquidation. He will not open the doors until there is a dollar on hand for every dollar that is owed. The examiner does not have the active charge of the liquidation. which is done by the officials of the bank, but it is done under the examiner's supervision. He sees that everything is done in strict conformity with the law.

To Sell the Bank Bullding. Mr. Lod Hill, president of the bank, is negotiating for the sale of the bank building and the lot. He has a prospect of getting a good price for the property and as soon as the sale is made there will be plenty of cash to pay every depositor all that is due him. The bank has now on hand about $320,000 in cash and cash assets. When the bank closed on the night of February 22d, it had in the vaults about $38,000 in cash and $4,000 in checks. Mr. Stone says that he thinks the inconvenience caused by locking up the bank's money has been over-estimated, but he deemed it the wise thing to do to have a transfer made of the money to another bank where it will be available for regular banking purposes, and recommended to the comptroller.

The Collection of Maturing Paper. Since the bank closed the maturing paper has been collected very promptly, considering that it is a suspended bank. Some debtors have not been prompt, but they are good and the money will be obtained. Mr. Stone states that the paper which the Gate City bank was carrying was of a high class, as a rule, and there will be very little of it that cannot be collected. There was not much long-time paper in the bank. The sooner debtors pay up the sooner liquidation will be possible. Dollar for Dollar.

Every depositor will get dollar for dollar and the stockholders will get par or very near for their stock. Reorganization, in the sense of reopening the bank, has been given up. If the bank could be reopened for business, the depositors would simply walk up and draw out their money if they were not satisfied. That would be the simplest method of paying them off and the quickest. Liquidation is the next best thing. A receivership would be the last resort. It is not so expensive but it causes a long delay and it might be six months before the depositors could get their money under a receivership. Getting Into Shape. President Hill is working hard to get the bank in shape to liquidate. He is anxious to have the matter settled up, and the examiner says that the president will soon have everything arranged satisfactorily, he believes. Liquidation might have been prepared for by this time, but Mr. Hill, on his trip north, missed seeing a party who wanted to buy the property. Not a penstroke has been made in the old books since the examiners took charge. They opened a new set and all the entries have been made in them. Liquidation will simplify the winding up of the bank wonderfully. A receivership would entail a great deal of work. All the money collected would have to be shipped to the comptroller of the currency at Washington and, after creditors proved their claims, checks would be issued to them and sent to the receiver, who would deliver them to the parties entitled to them. To prove the claims and get all the affairs in readiness to fill out the checks would take several months.

MARRIED IN MISSISSIPPI.

at 5 o'clock at the residence of the bride's parents."

Mr. Thempson has many friends in this city, and is one of the most promising young business men in Atlanta. He is the cashier of the Atlanta Exchange and Banking Company, and also the treasurer of the Chattahoochee Brick Company. His bride is one of the fairest daughters of Mississippi and belongs to one of the best families of that state. They will meet with a cordial reception when they return to the city to make Atlanta their future home.

DEATH OF A LITTLE GIRL.

The Four-Year-Old Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Brown Passes Away.

Mary, the little four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Brown, died at the rest-derce of her parents on Capitol avenue, yesterday afternoon.

The sympathy of the whole community goes out to the family in their great bereavement. The funeral will occur from the late residence today

THE POLICE TO REFORM THE STREET.

Events of Yesterday in Police Circles-Patton Carried Back to Carnesville-Other Minor Happenings of the Day.

The police have undertaken the work of reforming Decatur street and the heads of the department say they are going to do the job up brown and lose no time about

They invaded the very heart of this street which before their intrusion had been the choicest section of the lawbreaker. The population of Decatur street feebly resented the invasion of the police, but their protests did no good and their very worst prophe-cies of the woeful results that would follow the advent of the coppers seem about to be realized.

Late night before last Captain Thompson Detective Cason and Patrolman Kerlin raided a den directly opposite the police station and pulled twelve negroes. About twice as many more escaped by a rear entrance. The crowd had been enjoying a free fight, but as the front was protected by a screen, they did not expect the police to interfere.

Yesterday the twelve negroes, half of whom are women, were brought before Re-corder Calhoun for trial and the death knell of such dens as that in which they were found and which have existed on certain parts of Decatur street for years, was sounded. The entire gang were heavily fined and warned that if they were found in the same den again they would be given the extent of the law and the house closed. Captain Thompson testified that the house was ostensibly a restaurant, but he found upon entering it that it was divided into small booths in which crowds of men were small booths in which crowds of heat were congregated drinking and cursing. He said the place was not a restaurant at all. The police say they are going to wipe out such places. They are right in the midst of them and can attend to them to better advantage than before.

Whitley Scared the Entire Vicinity.

John Whitley, a contractor residing in the western part of the city, created a lively disturbance near his home night before last. He reached home considerably under the influence of whisky at a pretty late hour and proceeded to curse his daughter in the vilest manner.

and proceeded to curse his daughter in the vilest manner.

His violent language aroused all of his neighbors and they ran out, thinking something terrible had happened. Patrolman Lyle, who lives next door to Whitley, was awakened and he quickly went out to quiet the noisy and profane contractor, who had frightened the entire vicinity with violence. Whitley was fined $10 and costs by Recorder Calhoun yesterday.

Patton Carried Back.

H. M. Patton, the young white man wanted in Carnesville for cheating and swindling, and who was arrested here by Detective Green last Monday, was yesterday carried to Franklin county jail by Sheriff McCarty of that county.

Patton is a young man of good address and was formerly a school teacher near Carnesville, Ga. It is claimed that he collected tuition to which he was not entitled and this constitutes the charge against him. It is said also that a case of perjury stands against him, which is in some way connected with the first mentioned carse.

An ex-Convict Caught.

An ex-Convict Caught

An ex-Cenvict Caught.

Captain Moss yesterday morning caught Jule Watson, a negro criminal with a history, and landed him in the police station on a charge of burglary. Captain Moss recovered two suits of new clothes from the negro which Watson afterwards admitted to have been stolen.

After Watson was locked up fresh shackle marks were found on his legs and an investigation revealed the fact that he is an escaped convict from South Carolina. It is said that a reward of $100 is outstanding for his capture.

for his capture.

He Started Early.

Charles Johnson, whose father is the proprietor of a popcorn booth on the corner of Decatur and Collins street, was arrested last night by Patrolman Coker for carrying concealed weapons. The youth is only ten years old, but when he was caught he had a murderous-looking revolver on his person ready to do business.

ready to do business.

The youngster explained that boys were in the habit of raiding his booth and carrying away large installments of popoorn and he supplied himself with a good gun to end the life of the next offender. He was locked up, but as his father represented that the boy's mother had gone into convulsions upon learning of her boy's arrest and would die unless he was turned loose, the youthful offender was allowed to depart on his own recognizance.

Mr. Blackburn Appreciates the Interest
Which is Taken in His Application.

All over the state the press is taking an interest in Mr. B. M. Blackburn and in the most kindly way is pressing his claims. This is meant well, but Mr. Blackburn fears that it may be misunderstood away from home. He appreciates the friendly words which have been spoken of him, and is particularly proud of the references to his work in the campaign. He asks his friends not to grow impatient.

"I feel thoroughly content to rest my application with the president," he said last night. "There is absolutely no occasion for me to have friends persistently pushing my name before Mr. Cleveland. He has thousands of others doing that now and if a man is a true friend of his he will not add to the delegations which are daily besieging the white house. Mr. Cleveland never forgets a promise he has made. He said that he would take care of me and I am not disturbed about the delay."

Something was said regarding the appointment of others to two positions which he had wished.

"Oh, there are plenty more left" of the Bordeaux, Frankfort and Dresden class among foreign places and many a republican is holding a position which some good democrat is destined to fill after a while. The president will do by me as he thinks best. Whatever disposition he may make of my application, I am in earnest when I say that I will not complain. My support of him was loyal and unselfish, and even now I feel that the principles represented by him are of far more importance to me and the country than any mere matter of individual promotion."

The Collector of Dodge County Took a Check on the Gate City Bank and Is Worried.

Tax Collector Taylor, of Dodge county, wrote to the comptroller general yesterday asking for advice in the case of a lumber company which gave him a check on the Gate City bank and now refuses to make the check good. The collector did not deposit the check for collection promptly and before it was presented the bank suspended. He had given the company a receipt for its taxes. Now the company says that the collector is responsible, because he should have sent the check on right away for collection.

Captain Wright, the comptroller, replied to Mr. Taylor to levy on the company's property if it does not make the check good. There is no trouble about collecting the taxes in this case, says Captain Wright. Collectors can require the money to be paid and are not required to take checks anyway. The state treasurer requires the actual cash.

Judge Hal Lawson Now.

Governor Northen appointed Hon. Hal on the Gate City Bank and Is Worried.

Governor Northen appointed Hon. Hal Lawson yesterday judge of the Wilcox county court to succeed Judge Brown, whose term has expired.

THE INITIAL LESSON YESTERDAY.

Professor Theo. Toepel, the Instructor. Over 200 Volumes Contributed to the Police Library.

In the spacious armory on the third floor of the new police station the Atlanta police force took their initial lesson in physical culture and a course of military trianing vesterday afternoon.

yesterday afternoon.

It was a pretty good show, aside from the interest attaching to this commendable innovation, which bids fair to bring good results to the police department. The physical instructor was Mr. Theodore Toepel, of Philadelphia, who has been conditionally chosen the permanent director of the police gymnasium. The German-American sysgymnasum. The German-American system, the same as is taught at West Point and other military schools, was used, and in the single lesson he has given the finest, Mr. Toepel proved himself a splendid teacher.

At 4:30 o'clock the men were marshaled together in the armory and, taking off their coats, went to work in earnest, following the directions of the young instructor. At first they were worse than the green squad at a military school, but by degrees they caught on and before the lesson was half at a military school, but by degrees they caught on and before the lesson was half over a marked improvement could be noted.

The beauty of the system is that it not only gives the necessary military training but is, perhaps, the best system of physical culture extant. The men were carried through every conceivable motion calculated to exercise the muscles. Each man was supplied with a horizontal iron bar, which he waved wildly about in a seemingly senseless fashion, but a few moments close watching would reveal a distinct method in the business. Many of the movements were very graceful even as they were executed by the awkward policemen.

The men were drilled by Mr. Toepel and showed great improvement before the lesson was over. They each expressed themselves as highly pleased with the system, and said that they already felt improved.

A gymnasium is to be fitted up in the building and Mr. Toepel will have charge of the policemen and will carry them through a full course of physical culture and military training. The gymnasium will be a lasting benefit to the policemen and they are looking forward to the time when it will be ready for their use with happy anticipations. Chief Connolly and the several captains on the force are going to take lessons in physical culture.

The Police Library on a Boom.

The Police Library on a Boom.

The article in The Constitution of several days ago relative to Judge Andy Calhoun's suggestion about the police library, has borne good fruit. Over 200 volumes have already been contributed, and many more are expected. The appeal made by Judge Calhoun was a very thoughtful one and met with a hearty response. Books and magazines of the very highest literary quality were among the contributions of literature sent in. Many standard works were contributed.

Judge Calhoun, who first suggested the idea, gave a case of books of varied contents. He sent works of fiction, science and works touching on police matters. Major H. Franklin Starke sent a dozen good books. Others sending books were: Mrs. Harry Krouse, Mrs. L. Edney Benson, Mrs. Owen Lynch and Mr. Park Woodward. Mrs. Lynch gave a full set of Dickens's works. Mrs. Krouse sent sixty volumes of miscellaneous literature.

Parties who desire to give books can send their names to Chief Connolly and he will send for the books. The gentlemen who are at the head of the plan still urge citizens to send in such old books as they do not care for. They will form a welcome addition to the police library. The name of the giver is written in each volume. Chief Connolly is going to have the elegant room set apart for the library nicely furnished and giver is written in each volume. Chief Connolly is going to have the elegant room set apart for the library nicely furnished and supplied with shelves. With the help of citizens the police force hope to make it a pleasant place. They have no appropriation for the purpose of starting a library and cannot afford to stock it out of their own earnings.

AN EVENING IN JAPAN.

Professor Donald Downie's Entertaining A large audience greeted Professor Donald Downie, B. C. L., in the hall of the Young Men's Christian Association last evening, Men's Christian Association last evening, when the interesting and handsome Scotchman stepped out upon the stage he at once secured the good will and attention of his audience. His voice is very fine, his delivery clear and foreible and his intonations those of a scholarly man and a gentleman. His lecture was beautifully illutrated with stereopticon views of a journey through the land of the Mikado. Between the illustrations and the charming descriptions of the lecturer the audience was transported, as it were, into the country of the Jap. There were fifty-five stereopticon pictures shown rapidly in succession on the canvas, and they, with the animated words of Professor Downie, kept the nudlence in a delightful state of surprise and pleasure for a couple of hours.

Many young people, evidently school boys of hours.

Many young people, evidently school boys and girls, were present, and for them the entertainment was particularly felicitous and entertainment was particularly translations instructive.

Professor Downie's lecture for this evening is Napoleon and this will doubtless be even more instructive than his Japan.

The views are beautiful pictures, not photographs, many of them are exact reproductions in colored finish of the most famous paintings. This course of lectures we hope will be appreciated by the public and friends of the wholesome and refined amusements. Whether we may be able to continue this class of entertainment for the young men of our city will largely depend upon their friends. The Gate City Bank's Deers Will Be | And a Baker's Dozen of Decatur Street | The Police Are to Receive Military Train- | Are Enrolling at the Commercial Club Every Day.

THREE HUNDRED AND FORTY-TWO.

The Commercial Is Growing to Be the Throbbing Heart of Atlants-Its Purpose Fulfilled.

When the Commercial Club, of Atlanta, was founded a few brief months ago it was evident from the enthusiasm among the charter members who gathered at the chamber of commerce that just such a club had a place in Atlanta's future history.

Nothing has fallen short in the realization of such a promise thus far, and every day the club is taking on new life and growing to become more and more a very important institution of Atlanta. No better evidence of this fact can be reflected upon than that which shows itself in the great list of members of the club that has been so rapidly piled upon the books of the secretary since the club was There are today 342 members of the Commercial, and they represent the very sinew and strength of Atlanta socially, commercially and otherwise. The limit in 400, and this shows that only fifty-eight more members remain to be taken interested before the full membership i before the full membership is enrolled

Besides the regular local roll of members there is quite an activity now in the neighboring cities tending towards a full list of non-resident members. This makes the Commercial a club about which not only a social interest centers but likewise also a general interest throughout the state. Already members are enrolling from Marietta, Columbus, Macon, Savannah, Rome, Newnan, Griffin, Covington, Elberton, Fairburn and other cities and towns around Atlanta.

About the 27th of this month there will towns around Atlanta.

About the 27th of this month there will be a supper given by the Commercial complimentary to its members. The chief feature of the evening will be the supper, and the next best thing on the programme will be speeches and a general discussion in which all of the members present will take a hand. It will be no programme of set speeches, and the floor will be open to any member present who may have a word to say upon any subject whatever.

President Oglesby, of the Commercial was seen by a Constitution representative yesterday and said that the roll of members is steadily increasing, and that the names are coming in by the dozens. At a meeting of the directors yesterday about forty new members were taken into the club. It is interesting to look over the roll of members of the Commercial.

And the Battle for the Championship Will Open. Just two more days-then the real battle begins.

On Monday the clubs of the Southern League will begin their scramble for the championship. All interest is centered in that contest and with Monday the baseball season will begin in éarnest. Meanwhile, the Atlantas will play two more exhibition games with the "great" Chicagos. The Atlanta club opens the season away from home and will not return here for more than two weeks.

The boys were defeated by Chicago yesterday. They are just conceited enough to believe that Anse's "Colts" aren't in it with them and today Murray's boys will take sweet revenge.

The crowd yesterday was considerably disappointed at not having an opportunity to see Hutch put them over the plate.

He may do the twirling today.

Yesterday's Game.

Yesterday's Game.

Atlanta started off with a rush and for five innings it looked like a sure thing. Rettger was in the box and the visitors could do nothing with his delivery. They got one hit in the third, one in the fifth and one in the sixth. In the seventh, however, the Colts had a batting streak. Newman, Decker, McGraw, Caruthers and Taylor each hit out a double and when the smoke of battle cleared away five runs had been added to Chicago's total.

The hitting of Caruthers and Motz's home run were the features of the game.

"Day Off" in the Woods.

The grocers are making arrangements for their annual picnic, which occurs on the 10th of next month.

A committee to arrange the preliminaries has been appointed, consisting of the following well known gentlemen: Messrs. G. S. Pryor, W. I. Sims and A. W. Farlinger. At a large and enthusiastic meeting which was held last Monday night, there was a complete reorganization and a new charter adopted.

The following officers were elected: President, I. S. Mitchell; vice president, Robert Dohme; secretary, A. W. Farlinger; treasurer, Dan Klein.

The picnic will occur either at Lookout mountain or Taliulah falls.

THE NEW YORK MARKET. The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock Exchange.

New York, April 6.—There was a lull in speculation at the stock market today. The market was not weak at any time, but under sales to realize profits by the bulls an declination of the bear attacks prices rallied at intervals. The commission houses received liberal buying orders for local and out of town account early in the day and prices advanced 1-4 to 11-4 per cent. The Eastern and Western Trunk line shares. New England, Cordage and Louisville and Nashvilj: were especially strong. Subsequently there was a Western Trunk line shares, New England, Cordage and Louisville and Nashvilj: were especially strong. Subsequently there was a decline of 11-2 in Sugar to 1051-2, and a reaction of 1-4 to 11-½ in the remainder of the list, on talk of leavy gold exports and the passage of the maximum freight bill by the Nebraska legislature. Prior to the set back the quotations attained were the highest for some time, Rock Island having reached 86, Northwest 115 1-4 St. Paul 79, Burlington and Quincy 98, New England 33 3-4, and Missouri Pacific 52 1-2. The strength of the last named continued to attract attention for the reason it is indicative of a more buillish spirit among the Gould contingent. It subsequently transpired that gold shipments on Saturday will fall away below the estimates. Most of the bankers who have shipments heretofore state that they will not forward any gold by Saturday's steamer. Lazard Freres, it is anyounced, will ship $500,000. This caused a fractional recovery in the late dealings and a rise in Manhattan from 167 to 167 1-2 tended to make the market close and steady in tone. Sales 283,000 shares.

Railroad bonds were strong. The sales were and bonds were strong. The sales were Government bonds steady. State bonds dull.

Money on call was irregular, ranging from 6 to 3 per cent, last loan 31-2, closed offered at 31-2. Prime mercantile paper, 667 per cent. Sterling exchange firm, with actual business in bankers bills at 486 1-4@486 1-2 for sixty days, and 487-3-4@488 for demand. The total sales of stocks today were 283,600

Virginia consols. 60 The Post's Comments. New York, April 6.-The Post says: Much of the interest was dissipated before today's stock market opened. The buying was of a less responsible character and some of the less responsible character and some of the steady selling was for the account of yesterday's buyers. This might have been foreseen; and it is not indeed by any means a novelty, even in successful bull movements. Large upward movements usually begin on such a basis, and the confidence of the organizers in the financial future must be such as they will buy for their own account the stocks thrown over by timid traders and will buy them at an advance. But well grounded confidence is positively essential. The professional may be enthusiastic, and the "pool" may be powerful; but if the outside speculator and investor holds aloof, or worst still, if he himself sells at the higher range, the bull movement is surely wrecked, and there are very few intelligent operators who will trust the public to buy in the face of currency entanglements.

NEW YORK, April 6.—The market was strong today during the forenoon, but sold off during the afternoon on a spirited attack of the bears in which great energy was used to depress Chicago, Burlington and Quincy but the stock that was sold was all for short account. The general market was only active at times, and outsides have not yet taken as much interest in speculation as was to be hoped for. If the market keeps strong for a week or so more speculation will grow more active until it branches into a good bull market. The decline was on account of the proposed reduction in freight rates in Nebraska, but this measure will be vigorously fought in the courts. A rumor was also current that gold shipments on saturdax will amount to 3.000,000 but from information we received will not amount to over $1,000,000. It must also be noted that the buying of cotton today for Liverpool was quite extensive-which may have the effect of weakening the sterling exchange market.

Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Circular

Hubbard. Price & Co.'s Circular.

NEW YORK, April &—Our cables from Liverpool today state that the sharp improvement in that market was caused by a better demand from spinners. Our partner in London also cables us that trade there is improving, and his opinion is sustained by the large takings of spinners today in Liverpool. The trade has not seen 12,000 bales of cotton sold in Liverpool in one day for at least five mouths, and it is thought to be the forgunner of an increased depand for cotton the balance of the season, as their supplies have been reduced to a very low ebb. Liverpool opened at a loss of from $\frac{2}{3}\text{e}$-ds from yesterday's closing in answer to our very weak market here yesterday afternoon. This loss was recovered and an additional 2-64d gained, though the last advance was lost on realizing sales before the close weak market here yesterday afternoon. This loss was recovered and an additional 2-tid gained, though the last advance was lost on realizing sales before the close of the market, which was quiet and steady at yesterday's prices. Our private cables say that the operator who was thought to be in trouble yesterday would pull through, and that no trouble was expected at the weekly settlement, which was postponed from today until tomorrow in consequence of the Easter holidays. Our market opened steady at 12@13 points advance from yesterday, gained 5@5 points further and then declined under the realizing of the few who bought cotton on the lweak market last night. From that point the market steadled by the buying for export of a large amount of May contracts, which are now selling on such a basis as to show a profit to the exporters who ship them. In fact, this is the cheapest market even at the present advance in prices. The estimate at New Orleans is but 1,200 bales, against 7,000 bales last week and 4,276 bales last year. The market presents a better tone today, and conservative merchants have been buyers under the belief that cotton at 8c per pound today, in view of the diminished supply and the reduction in stocks which will occur from now until the last of September, is as cheap as it was last year at 70 with the overwhalming atooks. The weather conthe 1st of September, is as cheap as it was last year at 7c with the overwhelming stocks. The weather continues dry in Texas. The receipt of some outside in-vestment orders during the afternoon showed that the market was bare of cotton, and the close was firm at the best prices of the day.

J. S. Bache & Co.'s Cotton Letter. By Private Wire to B. W. Martin, Manager.

NEW YORK, April 6—Liverpool advices this morning were somewhat of a surprise in the face of our weak and depressed closing yesterday, and of our decline during that session. Early cables showed unchanged prices, and later cables an advance of 2-54d. The tone of the spot market was quoted firm and spot sales were on a larger scale than for some time past. Our market penend at an advance of 10 points and ruled firm all on a larger scale than for some time past. Our market opened at an advance of 10 points and ruled firm all day, prices advancing 10 points from the epening. There was a good demand principally from the shorts, and there was also a better speculative demand. The future depends on Liverpool, and the fact that that market remains steady and in a strong position, all reports of failures having been daried and continues. eports of failures having been denied, and continue to buy spots and options on a large scale, has changed the opinion of many of the most conservative people, the opinion of many of the most conservative people, who now think prices will improve. The large purchases of near-by options for Liverpool account could easily, if the same were taken up, create a scarcity of cotton in our market and start a summer bull campaign. We think the market a purchase for a quick

THE CHICAGO MARKET

Features of the Speculative Movement in CHICAGO, April 6—The wheat, corn and oats market closed weak after many changes. Provisions started strong and so continued to the end. Clique houses bought a good deal of wheat at the opening, and were credited with free selling later on a bulge. In addition to what was considered a disappointment by the bulls in the status of the Kansas crop, there was also a report that an early rain was probable in Missouri and Kansas which would relieve the situation and give the crop a big start. New York had big selling orders here, and the local crowd got quite bearish. For a time the market found little support from any quarter, but it soon underwent a sudden change. Cudaby's brokers began to pick up the wheat, and it was estimated that they secured 1,580,050 bushels in short order. This alarmed the bears; and, The Cincinnati Price Current coming in reporting that the crop in Indians was larger than previously indicated, created quite a boom, more especially in July. May wheat is CHICAGO, April 6-The wheat, corn and oats may Indians was larger than previously indicated, created quite a boom, more especially in July. May wheat is fast losing its interest, and the trade is now centering in July. At one time today the premium on May was 2½c. July opened ¾@\square loser loser declined ¼c more, then advanced irregularly 1½@1½c above inside prices, became weak and declined 1½c, closing steady at the lowest figure of the day. The late decline was due to heavy selling by Ream and liberal realizing by the early buyers.

The corn market was inclined to sell lower but are early buyers.

The corn market was inclined to sell lower, but any material decline was prevented more than once by the bullishness which prevailed for some time in the wheat market in the latter half of the session. The trading was only moderately active, and was largely confined to local dealers. The last prices were the lowest.

Outs followed suit with wheat and corn and was quite that lower.

a little lower.

The provision market was remarkably strong on buying by the heavy local dealers, particularly Oudahy and Armour, and, following their example, the scalpers' orders from the outside were scarce, and the firmness which prevailed was unaccompanied by much activity, except for about five minutes at the opening and again at the closing.

The New Waterworks Visited by Several City Officials.

MAYOR GOODWIN WAS ON HAND.

He Was Very Much Interested in Every Detail.

THEY HAD A REGULAR PICNIC DINNER.

The Trip Was Made in Carriages, and Pleasant Time Passed—The Four Officials Very Unanimous.

Mayor Goodwin, Judge Hillyer, president of the water board, City Engineer Clayton and Superintendent Richards, of the water works, accompanied by a representative of The Constitution took a day off and inspected the new waterworks, visiting both umping stations.

The trip was made in two buggles, and consumed from 9 o'clock yesterday morning until 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, The ride was a pleasant one, the route selected being out Luckle street to Hemphill avenue, along which driveway the city owns considerable property, which was pointed out to the mayor by the city engineer. Although it had rained the night before Hemphill avenue was in extraordinarily fine condition, the road not being heavy

The party reached the first station shortly after 10 o'clock, Judge Hillyer and Superintendent Richards arriving first. Mayperintendent Richards arriving first. Mayor Goodwin was shown through the building by the other members of the quartet. as he was not quite as familiar with the details as they. The enormous ten-million gallon pumping engine was viewed from all sides and pronounced a beauty.

"It's stupendeus, but it is symmetrical," ejaculated the moyar as he folded his hands behind him and was lost in admiration of "Just by way of giving a pointer," said Superintendent Richards, "I would like to say that this engine cost only $59,000, and it has a capacity of ten million gallons. There is now being erected in New Orleans an engine of the same capacity as this one and the cost of it is $210,000, and I don't believe that it is as good as ours. Why, if one portion of this engine needed repairing the other side could pump on, with but a very little stop."

The boiler room was then visited and the boilers were examined with interest by Mayor Goodwin, who appeared anxious to grasp every detail of the gigantic machin-ery. An iron ladder at the side of the six boilers was mounted and the party climbed on top to look around. The mayor was informed that they were Atlanta made boilers and, he immediately expressed the opinion that they were exceedingly fine

'Won't there be lots of heat lost?" asked Mayor Goodwin, alluding to the bare tops of the boilers. "All that will be packed," volunteered the city engineer.

Then followed a long explanation of drain pipes, suction pipes, filter pipes, cut off valves, regulators and basins, to all of which the mayor and Judge Hillyer paid close attention.

They All Took a Weigh.

Before leaving the first pumping station a pair of scales as spied by Mayor Goodwin, who made a break to get on them and find what his weight was. He jumped on and Superintendent Richards conducted the ceremony. The mayor tipped the beam at 216 pounds. Judge Hillyer mounted and his weight was revealed when the balance was made at 179 pounds. City Engineer Clayton came in at a good third at 178 pounds, while Superintendent Richards weighed only 130.

The clear water basin, which has a capacity of one million gallons was next inspected. There should be a railing of some kind around it," suggested Mayor Goodwin. "The basin is certainly well constructed," continued the mayor, but the cement seems to be falling off in one or two places."

He was assured that it would all be remedied before the city accepted if.

The filters were looked at and Superintendent Richards stated that a house of some kind would be necessary in order to prevent the water from freezing in the pipes. A cut-off valve was then visited and the superintendent explained how the water could either be sent through the filters and then into the clear water basin, or, if the water in the reservoir was clear enough, could be turned straight on to the pump.

"What we need," said the city engineer,

"What we need," said the city engineer, They All Took a Weigh.

reservoir was clear enough, could be turned straight on to the pump.

"What we need," said the city engineer, "is a line of pipe to run around the reservoir and connect with the pipe direct from the river station. This would be absolutely imperative in case of a washout or a draining of the reservoir in case some one should be drowned in it."

About the Engines and the Pipe.

ing of the reservoir in case some one should be drowned in it."

About the Engines and the Pipe.

"These large pieces of pipe," said Superintendent Richards indicating them with his forefinger, "are the first installment of the new pump which is to go in at this station. It will be a duplicate of the one we have just seen. Another thing we ought to have is a duplicate line of pipe to the city. This should be effected as soon as possible, as the pipe from the upper station to town has an artraordinary pressure and should a break occur the city would be without water for some time. On the other hand no duplicate pipe is needed from the reservoir to the river station for the simple reason that the reservoir holds nearly two million gallons of water, which would last until the necessary repairs could be made."

"You know," said the mayor, turaing to The Constitution reporter, "that the $182,000 worth of bonds was issued to cover the purchase of the duplicate engine that the superintendent has just alluded to. We have already spent $90,000, cutting off all other expenses that were not absolutely necessary in order that the work on the new waterworks might proceed. And we will cut down every department and furnish the other $90,000 before the waterworks shall not be completed on time. Both the city engineer and the superintendent of the waterworks have assured me that we should have water from the river in Atlanta by the list day of July, and I believe so too."

"Oh, yes," chimed in the superintendent, "everything will be in ship shape by that time. And there is another thing that I wish to impress. There is nothing ornamental about the new waterworks, but the whole business is built for stability. The only ornament that the station will have is a marble slab cemented in the wall between the two engines. This slab will bear the names of ex-Mayors Glenn and Hemphill, Mayor Goodwin, myself and City Engineer Clayton, but it won't cost the city a cent, for every man whose name ones on the slab will have to chip in and wi

And the mayor breathed freely once and the mayor breathed the reservior," more.

"The driveway around the reservior," ventured City Engineer Clayton, "is three-quarters of a mile nearest the reservoir."

"How many acres does the reservoir enclose, anyway," asked Mayor Goodwin, as he contemplated the enclosure as if he were trying to arrive at some satisfactory conclusion.

trying to arrive at some satisfactory conclusion.

"Fifty acres," answered the city engineer.

"The depth of the water is about thirty-five feet on an average. The minimum depth is thirty feet and the maximum depth is forty feet. That little tower in the direction of the first pumping station is to let in the water to the pipes that take it to the fiters. It can be let in at any depth by valves that connect with those rods on top. At the other end is the outlet tower, which is regulated in somewhat the same manner. The capacity of the reservoir is something like 189,000,000 gallons. If the two pumps at the river station were to work at it continuously the reservoir could be filled in about a week. However, we intend to go slow and it will take about a month to get it up to the top notch."

On to the Chattahooches.

The route to the river was then continued

On to the Chattahoochee.

The route to the river was then continued and three stops were made.

The first stop was at the point along the road where the men are engaged in putting the enormous pipes in position. Mayor Goodwin expressed a desire to see how it was done and he was made fully acquainted with the details of the work before he left. The men put the worsted around the flanges of the pipes and then run the lead with the aid of the rope of clay. The worker then took his position and was caulking the lead in tight after he had filed it off around the rough edges.

the lead in tight after he had filed it off around the rough edges.

"Wouldn't that be water tight without all that after the lead was poured on?" asked Mayor Goodwin.

"Not a bit of it," was the reply of Superintendent Richards. "The water would force its way through it in the easiest manner possible, if it wasn't caulked like that."

The second stop was when about half the road to the river station had been traveled. "There's a spring," suddenly exclaimed Mayor Goodwin, who had been keeping his eye on the adjacent scenery. "Lat's go out and get a drink."

The whole party followed the advice of Mayor Goodwin, and a delicious draught was dipped out of a splendid old rock spring.

was dipped out of a splendid old rock spring.

"Reminds me of when I was a boy," cogitated Judge Hillyer.

"Me, too," said both the city engineer and the superintendent.

"When I had typhoid fever," said the mayor, "the thing I wanted most was a drink of pure cold water from the spring I used to drink from when I was a boy," and the mayor drank a second dipperful of water.

of water.
"Nearly as good as the new waterworks water will be," murmured Messrs. Clayton water will be," murmure and Richards in unison. The third stop was to examine some especially fine masonry work, where the pipe was to be run across by means of a cantito inspect the river station.

The twin engines at this station are up and nearly ready to have the steam turned on. They are duplicates of the engine at the upper station, and of the same capacity, but are somewhat lighter in build.

"The more I see of the new waterworks and the progress that has been made the better pleased I am," said Mayor Goodwin. "The work has certainly been conducted by competent men."

The boiler room of this station has eight boilers instead of six, but they are all of the same capacity. The boiler room was visited and no one found fault with anything. The well from which the two pumps will draw water was looked at. This well is quite a number of feet below the lowest water that has ever been konwn in the history of the Chattahoochee river. The party then went across Peachtrecreek on a plank walk, much to the discomfiture of Mayor Goodwin, who made several wild attemps to lose his balance, and when cautioned not to do so, he intimated that unless he was let alone he would jump in outright. No sign of where the pipe has been laid across Peachtree creek is visible except where it enters and where it comes out. The pipe at present is being laid through solid rock, dynamite being used in making an opening.

Finally Judge Hillyer began to exhibit ing used in making an opening.

Finally Judge Hillyer began to exhibit an unusual amount of nervousness and pulled out his watch several times, suggestpulled out his watch several times, suggesting that if the mayor expected to get back to town in time for the special meeting he had better leave at once, and anyhow the time for dinner was rapidly approaching.

At this last remark a smile wended its way across Mayor Goodwin's face, at first faintly, and then vigorously. The smile continued and no one knew the meaning of it until, to the entire satisfaction of the party, and to Judge Hillyer's evident relief, the mayor took from its concealment under the seat of his carriage a big bundle of eatables.

And then ensued a regular feast, thanks to the admirable foresight of Mayor Goodwin.

About thirty minutes was consumed in eating lunch, and an hour and a half later the party had reached Atlanta and separated much pleased with the inspection of the new waterworks.

A few weeks ago a Chicago gentleman, who had been in Atlanta a short time, returned to his home. The brief absence had wrought such a change in him that he was not at first recognized by his own family. For years he had suffered from a chronic complaint of rather a complicated character. He had been in the hands of the doctors so long, and had endured such pain that when he left home he was but a shadow of his former self. So now, when he returned in perfect health the surprise was complete. The happy change was the result of using for a short time the treatment of DR. HATHAWAY & CO., the eminent specialists of this city. Their success is marvelous and you are sure of obtaining prompt and satisfactory results at a low and reasonable fee with all medicines furnished free.

Young AND MIDDLE-AGED MEN-Remarkable results have followed our treatment Years of varied and successful experience in the use of curative methods that we alone own and control for all disorders of men who have weak or undeveloped or diseased organs, who are suffering from errors of youth and excess, or who are nervous and impotent, the scofn of their fellows and the contempt of their friends and companions, lead us to guarantee to all patients, if they can possibly be restored, our own exclusive treatment will afford a cure.

REMEMBER—That there is hope for you. Consult no other, as you may waste valuable time. Obtain our treatment at once.

LADLES—You who have suffered from diseases peculiar to your sex, female weakness, should certainly try our new method of treatment, which surpasses the old methods, and does away with so much pain which is often experienced. Try our treatment and you will be satisfied.

SYPHILIS—This terrible disease is treated by us with the latest methods. And our experience at Hot Springs and eastern hospitals, enables us to entirely cradicate this terrible poison from the system. The most rapid, safe and effective remedy. A complete cure guaranteed.

IT IS ONLY A MEASURE OF CAUTION,

And Does Not Indicate, as a Boston Paper Intimates, That Atlanta Is Bankrupt. Yesterday's Meeting of Council.

A special session of the council was held yesterday afternoon for the small, but necessary purpose, of changing the date of opening the city registration books for the waterworks bond election from April 5th to 7th, but before the meeting rediourned a matter of some memory. adjourned a matter of some moment was

It was developed that the work of public

It was developed that the work of public improvements will beat a standstill until after the bond election, and it all came out in a very unexpected way.

Before the meeting was convened Councilman Beatie showed to a number of members a copy of The United States Investor, an industrial paper published in Boston, which contained a short article reflecting upon the credit of the city. The article stated that owing to a fault in the issue of $250,000 of water bonds that public improvements in Atlanta would be stopped for the current year. The general tone of the article reflected upon the credit of the city in a financial way, and to a person the city in a financial way, and to a person not acquainted with the facts it would appear from the article that the city was

The Boston publication did not please those members of the council who read it and they wanted to know who authorized and they wanted to know who authorized it. Of course, nothing could be learned upon this point, but Councilman Beatie stated that he understood that it was taken from an editorial of several days ago in The Evening Journal. He and his fellow councilmen thought the article very misleading and not at all representative of the real facts. There was some general discussion of the article before Mr. Shropshire called the meeting to order.

Then, after the council had attended to the matter for which it had been called together, Councilman Hill got up and wanted to know what all this talk about stopping public improvements meant. He was told that the council had adopted a resolution providing for such action, but he said he did not remember it. Councilman Northen said if he had voted for such a resolution he was crazy at the time. Other councilmen said they knew nothing of it.

man Northen said if he had voted for such a resolution he was crazy at the time. Other councilmen said they knew nothing of it.

Chairman Stockdell, of the finance committee, arose and said that such a resolution had been prepared, but had never been introduced. It had been learned that the result desired could be obtained without a resolution, and that was thought best, as the matter might get into the papers and a false impression get abroad owing to a misunderstanding of the facts. The contractors having the work in hand had agreed that the work could be stopped until after the waterworks bond election without any action of the council ordering that it be done. Mayor Goodwin had quietly made arrangements that this be done. The explanation was perfectly satisfactory to the council, as it was thoroughly understood that the work would only be stopped until the bond election on May 18th. But they still felt that an injustice had been done the city by the publication which might create the impression that Atlanta was financially bankrupt, which was not near the truth.

"So far from it indicating that we are bankrupt," said Mayor Goodwin, "it shows to those who are acquainted with the facts that we are, by the action that has been taken, only maintaining the integrity of the city, and abiding by our charter in not spending money before we get it."

The error in the last year's issue of waterworks bonds which made this second election necessary is familiar to all Atlantians. This error led to the present state of affairs. No serious delay in public improvements will be experienced.

The aldermanic board held its regular meeting yesterday afternoon. Only the work of laying sidewalk paying and small sewers, such work as is paid for by citizens, will go ahead as heretofore. The action of the mayor in having the work stopped is merely an act of caution that commends his judgment. The waterworks will be pushed rapidly forward to the exclusion of such work as has been discontinued for the present.

The Hill Ordinance Killed.

The Hill Ordinance Killed.

The aldermanic board held its regular meeting just before the council met, and among other matters considered the ordinance of Councilman Hill relative to the selection of a city treasurer. The ordinance provided for the selection of the person to fill that place who offered the city the best inducements for her money. Of course, the party selected had to be of sound standing in the community. The aldermanic board refused to concur in the ordinance.

Nothing else of interest was done by the board. The biggest portion of its work was postponed until a later meeting. A resolution was passed changing the date of opening the registration books from April 5th to the 7th. The books open today and close May 11th. Register and vote for the water bonds.

Yesterday.

Yesterday afternoon in the clerk's office a very interesting charter was filed.

The incorporators were R. D. Badger, Charles Turner, William Scott and Leroy Hardy, all colored citizens, and they desired to be incorporated under the name of the "Gate City Social Club."

They name their capital at $2,000 with the privilege of increasing it later on. The object of the association is the cultivation of the finer qualities of friendship and to conduct to such enjoyment as can only be obtained by giving to their body a corporate existence.

The association will begin an ative career conce, and will be a source of pride in a near future to our colored citizens.

TO APPEAR AGAIN.

Miss Minnie Jones to Give Another Readisg Monday K.enlag.

The entertainment given at the Young Men's Christian Association hall by Miss Minnie Jones last Tuesday night was of such a high order and called forth such favorable criticisms that she has been requested to appear again on next Monday, evening, April 10th. Miss Jones will give an entirely new programme and those who were fortunate enough to see her a few days ago will no doubt avail themselves of this opportunity to again testify their appreciation of her work as an elocutionist and as an exponent of the beautiful Delsartean philosophy. Miss Jones is a genius and is recognized as the leader of her profession in America. She is a bright, winsome, attractive young lady and possesses an individuality as charming as it is simple.

an individuality as charming as it is simple.
Yesterday at the request of Miss Nettle Sergeant, Miss Jones appeared before the young ladies in the Girls High school and gave a reading and exhibited certain features in Delsarte. She received a perfect ovation, and the young ladies manifested their enthusiasm by presenting her with a large bouquet of the choicest flowers.

Last Tuesday evening on Miss Jones's first appearance the hall was full of the elite of the city, and now that more is known of her and her wonderful ability in this line, it is safe to say that the house will be full to overflowing next Monday night. Seats are on sale this morning at the Young Men's Christian Association hall. It will be wise for you to go at once and reserve them.

Watch Key That Was Recovered After Being Lost Twenty-Two Years.

Being Lost Twenty-Two Years.

Dr. W. A. Baker has just recovered a gold watch key that he prizes very highly. It once belonged to Bishop Asbury, the first Methodist bishop in the United States, who was a cousin of the doctor's mother. While clerking for Silvey & Dougherty, twenty-two vears ago, Dr. Baker, then a boy, dropped the key between the ceiling and the wall of the store. There it lay hidden until a few days ago. Learning that the store was to be torn down the dector pointed out the crack through which the key was dropped, and requested the contractor to recover the heirloom for him. This was done and the genial doctor is now exhibiting the key to his numerous friends. It was as bright when found as when lost and there is possibly not another key in existence like it.

ELECTROPOISE VICTORY.

The Only Genuine!

DR. H. SANCHE, Inventor.

A CURE WITHOUT MEDICINE

The Electropoise "Victory" is the result of thirty-five years of conscientious labor by the talented scientist, Dr. H. Sanche. It is not presented to the public as an imperfect, crude appliance, which sometimes gives satisfactory results and sometimes not. The Electropoise "Victory," sold by us today, is the perfected appliance, tried by many thousands of weary sufferers from seemingly hopeless diseases and never found wanting. The Electropoise "Victory" in itself is not a new remedy—it is simply a new way of applying an old remedy. This remedy is OXYGEN, which as you know is nature's universal remedy for all diseased or wasted tissues of the body. The Electropoise "Victory" is the medium through which the body absorbs this life-giving oxygen. Miraculous as some of the cures effected by the Electropoise "Victory" may seem to you, they are but the result of the application of a material remedy which you find all around you in the air, in the water and issuing from the plant, but which heretofore you have been unable to use because of the lack of a proper appliance. At last it has come in the shape of the Electropoise "Victory" a simple little appliance so small as to be easily carried in the vest pocket. Remember the Electropoise "Victory" has already been used by thousands of sick people, and we will take pleasure in showing their grateful testimonials.

The Electropoise "Victory" WILL cure rheumatism, neuralgia, insomnia, nervousness, constipation, chills, colds, fevers, kidney, liver and spinal diseases, pneumonia, la grippe, etc.

Be sure to get the "Victory" Electropoise with proper advice as to its applicant. Be sure to get the "Victory" Electro-poise, with proper advice as to its applica-tion.

RAILWAY NEWS.

Interstate Commerce Commissioners Hear a Complaint

COLONEL STAHLMAN WAS NOT PRESENT

Colonel Morrison Says That the Board May Make a Test Case of the New Law on Colonel Stahlman.

The interstate commerce commission held a session yesterday at the custom house and heard a complaint in regard to a discrimination which had been ordered discontinued some time ago.

Complaint was made last year about

Complaint was made last year about freight on glass from Muncie, Ind.. to Atlanta, the point being made that the rate to this city was out of proportion to the rates to Chattanooga and Birmingham and other cities no more distant from the Ohio river than Atlanta. Mr. Cooledge, of the Southern Paint and Glass Company testified that the rate on glass by the carload lot was 27 cents from the river to Chattanooga and was 38 cents from Chattanooga here.

Considerable testimony was taken in regard

Among the witnesses who were examined were Mr. Edwin Fitzgerald, traffic manager of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia, and Mr. P. J. McGovern, assistant commissioner of the Southern Railway and Steamship Association. Mr. McGovern testified that the rates on glass had been adjusted and that the only reason the reduction has not been generally announced is because the association is getnounced is because the association is getting up an entirely new rate sheet on which there has been an enormous amount of work. It will be out in about a mouth, he stated. There were two cases. One was against the Lake Erie and Western, the Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago and St., Louis, the Louisville and Nashville, and the Nashville, Chattanoga and St. Louis.

These roads were represented by Mr. DeBow, counsel for the Lake Erie and Western.

DeBow, counsel for the Lake Erie and Western.

The other case was against the Baltimore and Ohio and the East Tennessee. These defendants were represented by Mr. George Hoadley, of Cincinnati, and Mr. Edward Baxter, of Knoxville. Judge Hines represented the complainants.

Among the witnesses summoned was Colonel E. B. Stahiman, commissioner of the Seathern association.

Colonel William Morrison, the chairman of the interstate commerce commission, said the board would probably have to make a test case against Colonel Stahlman. He thought that the commissioner probably left town to avoid answering the summons and to test the new law passed at the last session of congress. Under the old law the commission, would summon witnesses but finally some one refused, and when the case was tested, Justice Field, and later Judge Gresham decided that the commission did not have the power it claimed. So at the last session of congress the commission had another law passed. It provides that witnesses who fail to answer can be sued in the courts by the commission and if judgment is rendered against them they will be subject to a fine not exceeding $500.

It may be that Colonel Stahlman will be the first to be sued. He was in Washington, while congress had the bill under consideration and he did his best to have it killed.

He was in Nashville yesterday, where he

He was in Nashville yesterday, where he He was in Nashville yesterday, where he had been for a week, helping the Louisville and Nashville, and the Nasville, Chattanooga and St. Louis around the statehouse, where the legislature is sitting and entertaining the railroads in a lively manner.

The case against the Louisville and Nashville and its co-defendants was continued and no decision was rendered in the other, which was taken under consideration.

The commissioners who were here were colonel Morrison, Colonel Jud Clements, of Georgia, and Mr. Knapp, of New York. Colonel Clements was looking well and seemed well satisfied with his position, to which he was appointed a year ago. The interstate commissioners left yesterday afternoon for New Orleans.

Elegant Juniper St. Lots.

Here is a rare opportunity to buy a choice residence lot for a gentleman's home. The county commissioners, in their great desire to serve the county where the demand is greatest, have ordered Juniper street opened up at once to Blakely avenue. Nearly every available lot has been picked up on Peachtree and Piedmont avenue, hence the rush for Juniper, which is just between the two. This beautiful street having so recently been put in attractive shape, you are bound to receive an ammense benefit by buying now before Peachtree prices are reached. Two years from now you would scarcely be able to buy one of these valuable lots for twice what you pay now.

you would scarcely be able to buy one of these valuable lots for twice what you pay now.

The best lots are enhancing every day. Atlanta is just in her infancy. Great projects are on foot for this year by capitalists that know what they are doing that will swell the population by the thousands. Scores of men are growing rich annually by investing in Atlanta dirt. Did you ever hear of any one losing a dolar in a judicious investment in Atlanta real estate?

This sais Will Be Absolute.

Byery lot offered will be sold to the highest bidder. Go out and inspect the property and select your lot before the sale. This kind of choice real estate? Exceedingly scarce. Now is your chance to secure a magnificent site for small money; later you will certainly pay more. A few years back lots that could have been had for $75 per front foot on Peachtree are now in demand at from $150 to $200 per foot, and thus it will continue. The wise man will buy now; you can't make an investment that will pay better or more certainly. We offer exceedingly liberal terms; one-third cash, balance one, two and three years, 7 per cent interest. Call at my office for plats.

For Sale, April 12, at 4:30 O'clock, THE COOK RESIDENCE,

No. 313 on Peachtree Street.

This elegant 10-room house is new and has all of the late improvements to make house-keeping a pleasure. Hot and coid water closets, bath rooms, gas and electricity, finnished in beautiful hard wood. This is justly regarded as the most desirable part of Peachtree. Being just north of the Peachtree junction at Baker street, you can either walk into the city or ride upon the electric cars. Then, when you wish a pleasant drive, the smooth polished asphalt is before your door, extending north and south for blocks away. Stables, carriage house and everything necessary to make this a perfect home are all ready for use. As far as the eye can reach magnificent buildings containing delightful neighbors, greet you. There is literally nothing objectionable to be found in this locality. This lot extends from Peachtree to lvy street, furnishing easy access to the premises from both streets. The house is unusually well built; none but the best material was allowed to go into the building. It was intended for a permanent home for the owner, but death places it upon the market to the highest bidder, Wednesday. April 12th, at 4:30 o'clock.

Terms, one-third cash, balance on time. The sale will be absolute.

STUART'S

Gin and Buchu

For the last few years kidney disease has been rapidly on the increase.

Insidious in its approach—alarming in its consequences—this terrible scourge has cut down some of the brightest intellects of the age. Many suffer from kidney trouble long before they are aware of the true character of their complaint.

In disease any neglect or delay is dangerous. This is peculiarly true of all kidney affections. As soon as the first symptoms appear, treatment should commence.

Dull pain in the back, weakness over the joins or tenderness upon pressure, scanty or reddish urine, cloudy after standing, brick dust deposit, albumen or uric acid reaction, smarting or burning pains in passing water, etc., are dauger signals, and should be promptly heeded.

Stuart's Gin and Buchu

LONG DIVISION

The Lawyers Dissecting the Spoils of the Ryan Case.

LAST SCENES OF THE LITIGATION.

Only $9,500 of the Vast Ryan Capital the Subject of Division-$26,500 Will Be Divided Later.

If there were not so many figures inwritten on "the last of the Ryan litigation." But the figures are in the way, and the destroyed by the constant repetition of numerals. This is very much to be regretted, but even as it is be regretted, but even as it is a brief review of this stupendous break, in the light of certain developments which transpired yesterday, cannot fail to interest a large number.

The lawyers interested in the case, in be half of the vast army of unprotected creditors, were busy in the mathematical endeav-or to apply the rule of long division to the small sum of $9,500. This is the remnant of the large amount that was realized from the sale of the enormous stock of goods by Receiver Kingsbery. It was very much like the remains of a Christmas turkey af-ter the festivities of that celebration were concluded, and as such it even appealed with a touch of humor to the hungry law

When Mr. Ryan failed about two years ago-it was in the summer of 1891-he was a debtor to the business world in that splendid aggregation of ciphers-$1,000,000. As soon as the community was able to catch its breath, the first sensation which took the place of astomshment was that of admiration. There was something unusual, not to say magnificent, about such a bold, colossal break. It was altogether out or the usual run of current events in this part of the world, and excited vague remnis-cences of that mythological fake, the story of Aladdin and his wonderful lamp. It gave to Atlanta a sort of commercial eciat, and pronounced her no longer a met-ropolitan, but a cosmopolitan city. It was considered as an excellent advertisement, although it was in the nature of a general although it was in the nature of a general smash up.

But to go back. The failure of Mr. Ryan was, to a certain extent, anticipated. This foresight was due, of course, to the rapid manner in which he was disposing of articles "pro bono publico," apparently at one-half and one-third of their cost value. The crowds began to hurry in that direction, and the consequence was that in the course of a few weeks the community had replenished its wardrobe, and there was scarcely a man, woman or child in the city who was not directly the beneficiary of Mr. Ryan's magnanimity.

But there is an end to all things, as the prophets say, and so the day came when Mr. Ryan closed his doors, and rumor had it that Atlanta's merchant prince had failed. This rumor was sustained when the sheriff drew up in front of the door and failed. This rumor was sustained when the sheriff drew up in front of the door and tacked his little card on the front entrance to the estab-ishment.

An inventory of the stock was carefully taken by Receiver Kingsbery, during which time Mr. Ryan was living under the cloud of legal suspicion, involved in the charge of contempt of court. The inventory footed up something in the neighborhood of $500,000, which was greatly in excess of the liabilities due for the purchase of the goods.

Finally the stock was reduced to cash, and it was found when the assets were counted that the receiver had only $306,000 in hand. It was like cooking a pot of greens and there was very little to show for the big lot of bills which were pasted in the invoice book.

Starting with the amount $306,000 we will now proceed to make a few substraction.

Starting with the amount $306,000 we will now proceed to make a few substractions. First, the sum of $115,000 was paid to Claffin & Co., then to the clerks and for taxes during the time in which the goods were sold by the receiver, $15,000; then the bills for the mortgagees, amounting to $350,000 were settled at $88,000. Adding to this the money recently paid out by order of the jury, namely: $52,000 to cover the expenses of the auditor, the clerks, the attorneys and the receivership, there was a balance of only $36,000 left.

Of this amount $26,500 is now in the yaults of the Gate City National bank. The remainder, $9,500, constituted the problem in the little boy's arithmetic which puzzled the attorneys yesterday.

As soon as the money is obtained from the yaults of the bank the remaining nor puzzled the attorneys yesterday.

As soon as the money is obtained from the vaults of the bank the remaining portion will also be prorated. The money is not being divided up between all of the creditors, but only that part of them who were able to establish their claims and to identify their property. The others who represent by far the greater part of the indebtedness, will never get a cent.

When the matter is finally settled the creditors will not be able to purchase a great deal of Atlanta dirt with the proceeds which they will realize.

It will be gratifying to know, however, that the matter is settled, and that the last act in one of the most noted cases in the history of this country has been written.
